Executive Committee of the Trustees of the University of Pennsylvania
15 December 1983

Pursuant to Section 7512 of the Pennsylvania Nonprofit Corporation Law, the members of the Executive Committee of the Trustees of the University of Pennsylvania, a Pennsylvania nonprofit corporation, unanimously consented to the adoption of the following resolution:

Intention: On 21 October 1983 the Trustees approved a resolution authorizing the purchase of an IBM 3081 mainframe computer for the School of Arts and Sciences (SAS) Computer Facility, at a price of $1,701,000. The Administration was at that time investigating the possibility of financing this purchase as a tax-exempt installment sale through the Pennsylvania Higher Education Facilities Authority (PHEFA).

In conjunction with the purchase of the mainframe, the SAS Computer Center also plans to purchase certain peripheral equipment—namely a 3082 controller unit, a 3089 power unit, a 3087 coolant unit and a 3278 console, for a collective purchase price of $273,288. Amortization of the cost of this equipment will be funded from fees charged to users.

The necessary arrangements have been completed to permit financing of this purchase on a tax-exempt basis through PHEFA at a rate of 8.75%. Legal fees plus the Authority’s fee attendant to this financing will approximate $32,000.

In light of the favorable rate available to the University through this financing mechanism, the Administration proposes to collectively finance the mainframe computer, peripheral equipment and related financing fees, which aggregate approximately $2,010,000.

RESOLVED, that the purchase of the aforementioned peripheral equipment and the financing of said equipment with the computer mainframe and related administrative and legal fees be approved, and that the vice president for finance or other appropriate officers of the University hereby are authorized to proceed with such purchase and negotiate such lease agreements and incur such expenses and obligations—not, however, substantially in excess of the estimated cost of such equipment as presented to the Budget and Finance Committee—as may, in their judgment, be necessary or desirable to effect such purchase.

Respectfully submitted,

Mary Ann Meyers
Secretary of the University
