Class of 2011

celebrate

achievement
In the words of one elegiac tribute, “Great men have two lives: one which occurs while they work on this earth; a second which begins at the day of their death and continues as long as their ideas and conceptions remain powerful.”

These words befit the great Benjamin Franklin, whose inventions, innovations, ideas, writings, and public works continue to shape our thinking and renew the Republic he helped to create and the institutions he founded, including the University of Pennsylvania.

Nowhere does Franklin feel more contemporary, more revolutionary, and more alive than at the University of Pennsylvania. His startling vision of a secular, nonsectarian Academy that would foster an “Inclination join’d with an Ability to serve Mankind, one’s Country, Friends and Family” has never ceased to challenge Penn to redefine the scope and mission of the modern American university.

When pursued vigorously and simultaneously, the two missions – developing the inclination to do good and the ability to do well – merge to help form a more perfect university that educates more capable citizens for our democracy.

Penn has embodied and advanced Franklin’s revolutionary vision for 271 years. Throughout its history, Penn has extended the frontiers of higher learning and research to produce graduates and scholars whose work has enriched the nation and all of humanity.

The modern liberal arts curriculum as we know it can trace its roots to Franklin’s innovation to have Penn students study international commerce and foreign languages.

The first medical and business schools in the United States were launched here.

And the first general-purpose electronic, digital computer – ENIAC – was invented right here at the University of Pennsylvania.

At Penn, the never-ending quest for innovation and academic distinction has found perfect Franklinian expression in “The Penn Compact,” President Amy Gutmann’s bold vision for propelling our University from excellence to eminence in all our core endeavors. Fulfilling the goals of the Compact – increasing access for talented students of all backgrounds, integrating knowledge across multiple disciplines, and engaging our knowledge with communities locally and globally – is the focus of Penn’s current $3.5 billion Making History campaign, and will position the University to make the greatest possible contribution to our society and our world.

Today, Penn proudly graduates a class of men and women who have shown the intelligence, drive, integrity, and character to become engaged citizens who will serve humanity with distinction. Our Penn graduates are poised to take their place as productive democratic citizens and as just and humane stewards of our world.

In these challenging and perilous times, a world in need of young men and women who are willing to shoulder the moral responsibilities of leadership can look to Penn.

Franklin wrote: “We may make these times better if we bestir ourselves. The noblest question in the world is ‘What good may I do in it?’”

The answer to this question will be furnished by Franklin’s newest heirs, the graduates of 2011.
Guests will find this diagram helpful in locating the approximate seating of the degree candidates. The sequence in which the candidates are presented for degrees is shown on the next page. The list on page 13, detailing the colors of the candidates’ hoods according to their fields of study, may further assist guests in identifying the locations of the various schools.

In case of emergency, evacuation procedures will be announced.

Oh, say, can you see, by the dawn’s early light,
What so proudly we hailed at the twilight’s last gleaming?
Whose broad stripes and bright stars, thro’ the perilous fight
O’er the ramparts we watched, were so gallantly streaming.
And the rockets red glare, the bombs bursting in air,
Gave proof through the night that our flag was still there.
Oh, say, does that star-spangled banner yet wave
O’er the land of the free and the home of the brave?

THE RED AND BLUE
By William J. Goeckel, Class of 1896, and Harry E. Westervelt, Class of 1898
Come all ye loyal classmates now, in hall and campus through,
Lift up your hearts and voices for the royal Red and Blue.
Fair Harvard has her crimson, old Yale her colors too,
But for dear Pennsylvania, we wear the Red and Blue.
(Chorus)
Hurrah! Hurrah! Pennsylvania!
Hurrah for the Red and the Blue;
Hurrah! Hurrah! Hurrah! Hurrah!
Hurrah for the Red and the Blue.

TWO HUNDRED FIFTY YEARS AGO

THE COMMENCEMENT OF 1761

Pennsylvania Gazette
Thursday, 28 May 1761

Tradition and innovation are the very heart and soul of the University of Pennsylvania, but it is rare to find evidence for this understanding of University identity in the events of 250 years ago. The Commencement of 1761, however, provides just that opportunity. The Annual Commencement – simultaneously solemn and celebratory – is the greatest of all Penn’s traditions. In academic dress, it is formal; in speech, it is learned, witty, and humorous; in style and spirit, it is joyful.

Celebrating commencement with music – both instrumental and vocal – is a tradition at the University of Pennsylvania virtually as old as the University itself. Today and for many years, stretching back at least as far as the 1930s, the Academic Procession has marched to Edward Elgar’s magnificent composition, “Pomp and Circumstance, No. 1.” Likewise, the singing of the National Anthem and “the University hymns” has a venerable place at Penn’s commencements. There was a time, however, in early American life, when the performance of music at public ceremonies was a dramatic and newsworthy innovation. The College of Philadelphia – as Penn was then known – not only embraced the change, but was in the vanguard of experimentation. The story began in December 1759, when the following advertisement was placed in the Philadelphia newspapers, 250 YEARS AGO: “Juvenes in Artibus initiati” or “Students in the Arts.” The Latin text reproduced here is the upper third of a “broadside” or poster, printed and distributed in May 1761, which was intended for public display and which advertised the “public examinations” of the students held prior to Commencement. The broadside was written in the form of an announcement that the students would engage in a public defense under the auspices of the several members of the Faculty “Senate;” the Trustees of the College of Philadelphia; James Hamilton, the Deputy Governor of Pennsylvania and also Trustee of the College; and most importantly, Thomas and Richard Penn, sons of William Penn and joint proprietors of the Province of Pennsylvania. The Latinized names of the thirteen members of the Class of 1761 – “Juvenes in Artibus initiati” – follow at the bottom of this cropped illustration.

On Saturday last the public Commencement was held in the College of this City, before a vast Concourse of People of all Ranks. Besides the usual Exercises (which gave great Satisfaction to the Audience) there was performed in the Forenoon an elegant Anthem, composed by JAMES LYON, A.M. of New-Jersey College; and, in the Afternoon an ODE, sacred to the Memory of our late gracious Sovereign GEORGE II, written and set to Music, in a very grand and masterly Taste, by FRANCIS HOPKINSON, Esq., A.M. of the College of this City. A Sett of Ladies and Gentlemen, in order to do Honour to the Entertainment of the Day, were kindly pleased to perform a Part both of the Anthem and Ode, accompanied by the Organ, which made the Music a very compleat and agreeable Entertainment to all present.

Besides the Degrees conferred on the Students, the Rev. Mr. ISAAC EATON, and the Rev. Mr. SAMUEL STILLMAN were admitted to the honorary Degree of Master of Arts.

Pennsylvania Gazette
Thursday, 28 May 1761
By PERMISSION, and by particular DESIRE, towards the raising a Fund for purchasing an ORGAN, to the COLLEGE-HALL in this City, and instructing the Charity Children in PSALMODY.

At the THEATRE, on Society Hill, this evening will be presented, the tragical and interesting History of GEORGE BARNWELL

Thoroughgood, by Mr. Douglass; Uncle, Mr. Morris; George Barnwell, Mr. Hallam; Blunt, Mr. Harman; Trueman, Mr. Tomlinson; Millwood, by Mrs. Douglass; Maria, Mrs. Love; Lucy, Mrs. Harman.

Before the Play, and between the Acts, several celebrated Pieces of Concert Music will be performed by some Gentlemen of this City, who have kindly consented to promote the Design of this Entertainment; for which Purpose a neat Harpsichord will be provided.

Also, a Prologue in Praise of MUSIC will be spoken by Mr. Hallam; and an occasional Epilogue by Mrs. Douglass.

... N.B. As this Benefit is wholly intended for improving our Youth in the divine Art of PSALMODY and CHURCH MUSIC, in order to render the Entertainment of the Town more compleat at Commencements, and other public Occasions in our COLLEGE, it is not doubted but it will meet with all due Encouragement from the Inhabitants of this Place.

To begin exactly at Six o’Clock.

Tickets to be had of Mr. Dunlap, Mr. Hurry, and of several Gentlemen.

Philadelphia did, indeed, support the “Benefit for improving our Youth” and the play produced at the “THEATRE, on Society Hill,” must have sold out, because a fine organ was soon thereafter constructed in the first College Hall – located on a campus at Fourth and Arch Streets in Philadelphia – and was both introduced to the public at the Commencement of 1760 and reported in the Philadelphia newspapers as follows,

... The Orations, Disputations, and other Academical Exercises, were agreeably intermixed with sundry Anthems and pieces of Psalmody, sung by the Charity Boys, attended with an Organ, which the Liberality of the Town lately bestowed. At the Close of the whole, the Audience was most delightfully entertained with two Anthems sung by several Ladies and Gentlemen, who have not been ashamed to employ some of their Leisure Hours in learning to celebrate their Maker’s Praises with Grace and Elegance. ...

The Commencements of 1861

THE UNIVERSITY OF PENNSYLVANIA

During a period of over a century, the influence exercised throughout our country by the University of Pennsylvania has been acknowledged. Its varied departments have been conducted very successfully as schools of instruction, and are renowned for their talent. In the catalogue published for this year, we note that there were in the Department of Arts, one hundred and forty pupils, in that of Medicine, four hundred and sixty-five, and in that of Law, seventy-one. The Charity (English) Schools number one hundred and fifty pupils, thus making a total of eight hundred and twenty-six scholars, a number that will compare favorably with Yale College, or any other of our distant educational establishments.

The continued prosperity of the Medical Department, which this year shows a larger class of pupils than any other medical school in the United States, is especially gratifying, the large number of four hundred and sixty-five students being truly remarkable, in view of numerous and powerful rivals, the commercial distress of the country, and a political excitement hitherto unknown.

Of the Medical Class, there were from Pennsylvania, two hundred and twenty-two students; from North Carolina, forty-four; from Virginia, thirty-six; from Mississippi, nine; from Tennessee, eight; from Florida, five; from South Carolina, four; from Texas, three; from the United States Army and Navy, seven; from Nova Scotia, six; from England, one; from the West Indies, two; as well as some from Louisiana, Georgia, Alabama, Massachusetts and New York. The latter state furnished five. With all the pre-eminence claimed by the metropolis in commerce, Philadelphia has always maintained the lead in medical instruction, and it is a subject of congratulation to many of our citizens, whose interests are closely identified with our medical schools, to learn that this prosperity is so well maintained by the University, under existing conditions.

The medical commencement is to be held at the Musical Fund Hall, on Thursday next, at noon, when we may expect to see a large graduating class, who, in returning to their homes, will carry with them agreeable recollections of their residence in our city.

Philadelphia Inquirer
Tuesday, 12 March 1861

By March 1861, as these clippings from the Philadelphia newspapers make clear, the national political crisis loomed, dark and threatening, over much of the local news. South Carolina had seceded from the Union on 20 December 1860 and six Southern states – South Carolina, Georgia, Florida, Alabama, Mississippi, and Louisiana – joined to form a provisional Confederate government on 8 February 1861. Those six states, plus Texas, adopted the “Constitution of the Confederate States” on Monday, 11 March 1861. At the University of Pennsylvania’s School of Medicine, nineteen members of the graduating class were permanent residents of these first seven states of the Confederacy. An additional forty-eight were residents of four other Southern states – Virginia, Arkansas, Tennessee, and North Carolina – which, just a few weeks later, after war broke out at Fort Sumter, would also secede from the Union. Residents of the eleven Confederate states made up a total of 38% of the graduating class. In retrospect, it was remarkable that there was no incident at the School’s Commencement.

COMMENCEMENT OF THE UNIVERSITY OF PENNSYLVANIA

The Annual Commencement of the University of Pennsylvania took place yesterday morning, in Musical Fund Hall. The procession moved from the College, at ten o’clock, and reached the hall half an hour afterward, in the following order: -- The Provost, Dr. GOODWIN, at the head, in cap and gown, followed by Professors KENDALL, JACKSON, ALLEN, FRAZER and COPPÉE, the Trustees of the University, and the graduates, in order of rank. Professors and graduates were all gowned.

The hall was two-thirds filled, chiefly by ladies, whose gay bonnets presented the coup d’oeil of a gorgeous flower-bed.

The proceedings were opened by a prayer by the Provost, followed by a Greek salutatory oration, by Mr. RICHARD H. DOUGLASS.

After this came the following orators: --

The Parallax of Human Vision, EDWARD J. HEYL.

Puritanism in America, MARTIN P. JONES.
The Moral Pendulum, CHARLES A. SCHAEFFER.
The Threefold Future, SAMUEL WAGNER, JR.
Louis Philippe, JOHN FORBES, JR.
The Effect of Truth upon its Advocates, CHARLES J. LITTLE.
Dogmatism, CHESTER D. HARTRANFT.

150 YEARS AGO: Medical Hall on the Ninth Street Campus. In 1828 the faculty of the School of Medicine engaged a prominent Philadelphia architect, William Strickland, to design a new Medical Hall. Construction began in February 1829 and was completed in October of that year. Medical education at Penn was conducted in this building until the School moved to West Philadelphia in 1873. In this view, which dates to ca. 1870, the photographer stood on the east side of Ninth Street and turned his camera southwest in order to document the east and north facades of the building. Historical Notes (continued)

150 YEARS AGO: Daniel Raynes Goodwin (1811 – 1890) (A.B., Bowdoin College, 1832; L.L.D. (hon.), University of Pennsylvania, 1868) was Provost of the University of Pennsylvania in 1861 and presided at both the Medical Commencement in March and the University Commencement in July. These were his first Penn commencements; he had come to Philadelphia just a year earlier from Trinity College in Hartford, Connecticut, where he held the presidency from 1853 to 1860. He was also an ordained Episcopal clergyman and very active in the national Episcopal church. In 1868 he left Penn to become Dean of the Episcopal Divinity School in Philadelphia. Goodwin was the seventh and last clergyman to hold the Penn provostship. This early photograph of Goodwin dates to ca. 1861. Oliver H. Willard, photographer, 1628 Market Street, Philadelphia.

Collections of the University Archives and Records Center.

The valedictory address was very well delivered by GREGORY BEDELL KEEN, who spoke first to the audience and then to the Trustees of the University, afterwards to the Professors, then to the Juniors, and finally to the graduates. The music which interspersed the exercises was by HASSLER’s Orchestra. The proceedings closed at half-past one o’clock.

Philadelphia Inquirer
Thursday, 4 July 1861

The most striking feature of the University Commencement of 1861 was its adherence to tradition. The ceremony of July 1861 was virtually indistinguishable from that of a century earlier. The public procession in academic garb, the entrance into a grand auditorium, the accompanying music, the initial student address in Greek, the six student addresses in English, the conferring of degrees, and the valedictory were all borrowed directly from Penn’s first commencements. Likewise, the undergraduate curriculum in 1861 was little different from its counterpart in 1761. While professional education – led by the School of Medicine, but by 1861 also including the Law School and the School of Engineering and Applied Science – was transforming the landscape of American universities, the liberal arts and sciences were mired in the past. Another generation would pass before this too would change.

150 YEARS AGO: Robert Empie Rogers (1813 – 1884) (M.D., University of Pennsylvania, 1836) was the School of Medicine’s Commencement speaker in March 1861. He was then concluding his ninth year as Professor of Chemistry and his fifth year as Dean of the School. He would continue another sixteen years in both positions, resigning both in 1877, at the age of sixty-four. Though trained as a physician, he did not practice; he was a scientist who greatly expanded the field of chemistry as applied to medicine during his years at Penn. Rogers introduced, among several other notable innovations, the study of organic chemistry at Penn. This early photograph of Rogers dates to ca. 1861. Photographer unknown.

Collections of the University Archives and Records Center.

It is interesting to speculate upon the future of these youths; whether their lives will be a prolonged march of victory, of the nobleness of which their speeches give the keynote, or whether their intellectual manhood will slip into the slough of money-getting, or many of the frivolities of fashionable life.

[The reporter then listed the names of the fifty-nine graduates, beginning with the names of the twenty-three recipients of the degree of Bachelor of Arts, continuing with the names of the sixteen recipients of the semi-honorary degree of Master of Arts, the names of the eighteen recipients of the degree of Bachelor of Laws, the names of the two recipients of the degree of Doctor of Medicine, and concluding with the names of the three recipients of honorary degrees, two Doctors of Divinity and one Doctor of Laws.]

The various gentlemen here mentioned formed upon the platform in front of the Provost, and were addressed in Latin by him, with good advice and compliments upon their diligence, ending by conferring their various degrees upon them by name.

The Provost then announced in English various prizes, as follows:

Intellectual and Moral Philosophy – ED S. HARLAN and JOHN S. JONES.
Greek and Latin – RICHARD H. DOUGLASS.
English Language and Literature – RICHARD H. DOUGLASS.
Essay on the Colonial Principle – GEORGE D. BUDD.
Declamation – JAS. W. ASHTON and CHAS. G. RUMFORD.
The “Henry Reed Prize” – RICHARD H. DOUGLASS.
FIFTY YEARS AGO:

THE COMMENCEMENTS OF 1961

During the middle years of the twentieth century, Penn held two, regular graduation ceremonies: the Mid-Year Convocation and the annual Commencement. The University typically conferred several hundred degrees at the Mid-Year Convocation, which permitted it to be held in Irvine Auditorium. The annual Commencement was much the larger of the two – the University typically conferred more than 2,000 degrees – and it was held in the Municipal Auditorium (where the Ruth and Raymond Perelman Center for Advanced Medicine now stands). The traditions observed at both events were similar in several respects to those held by the College a century and two centuries earlier – the participants still dressed in academic regalia; the procession, accompanied by music, was still an extraordinary parade; the awarding of degrees still symbolized the achievement of a lifelong credential of enormous importance – but the program was now focused – like that of the School of Medicine in 1861 – on the inspirational leadership of the speaker and the recipients of honorary degrees. Student “orators” had given way to those who had been successful and become prominent in American and international life. In 1961 Penn’s Mid-Year Convocation and its annual Commencement adhered closely to this new statement of educational values. It is the model that continues to the present day.

Penn Graduates 600 at Mid-Year

The University of Pennsylvania graduated a mid-year class of about 600 and conferred honorary degrees on an educator-physicist and a clergyman Saturday.

Dr. Arthur S. Adams, president of the American Council on Education, delivered the convocation address and received an honorary degree of Doctor of Science. The Rev. Edward G. Harris, chaplain of the University and lecturer in Christian ethics since 1950, received an honorary degree of Doctor of Divinity. He recently was named dean of the Divinity School of the Protestant Episcopal Church, Philadelphia, and will leave Penn June 30.

In the graduating class were students from 32 States, the District of Columbia, Puerto Rico, and 22 foreign lands.

Philadelphia Inquirer

Sunday morning, 5 February 1961

In February 1961 Arthur Stanton Adams (1896 – 1980) was completing his eleventh and final year as President of the American Council on Education (ACE). In May 1950, when Adams was elected to the presidency of ACE, the New York Times described the privately-supported, non-profit in these terms, “The Council, with more than one thousand affiliated colleges, universities, and national educational organizations, is considered the most influential school group in the country. It cuts across all educational levels, from elementary school through graduate and professional schools.” During his tenure, Adams maintained and perhaps enhanced the Council’s national stature. In February 1960, when Adams announced his retirement, the Chicago Tribune said, “The Council presidency is regarded as one of the top positions in education in the United States.” A year later, the University of Pennsylvania joined in praising Adams and his work with ACE by awarding him its honorary degree of Doctor of Science.

Today, fifty years later, the American Council on Education is located on Dupont Circle in Washington, D.C., where its work is carried forward under the presidency of Molly Corbett Broad. The ACE web site summarizes its current strategic plan as follows, “ACE, the major coordinating body for all of the nation’s higher education institutions, seeks to provide leadership and a unifying voice on higher education issues and to influence public policy through advocacy, research, and program initiatives.”

Wise Choice of Values Urged on Penn

Greenewalt Warns of Conformity

Adjustment to an organizational environment requires “neither brash self-assertion nor unquestioning compliance,” Crawford H. Greenewalt, president of E. I. du Pont de Nemours & Co., declared Monday at the 205th commencement of the University of Pennsylvania. Greenewalt told more than 2,400 members of the graduating class that adjustments call for a choice of values which recognize that individual aims and organizational goals are “thoroughly compatible and may be achieved with honor both for the individual and for the organization.”

50 YEARS AGO: Mid-Year Convocation in Irvine Auditorium. In 1961, Penn’s distinguished Professor of Anthropology, Loren Corey Eiseley, was Provost of the University and as Provost he presented the Convocation speaker, Arthur Stanton Adams, to President Gaylord Probasco Harrwell for the conferring of the honorary degree of Doctor of Science. In this view, Eiseley, in glasses, is at the left; Adams, is in the center; and Harrwell, holding a rolled copy of the citation which accompanied the degree, is at the right. The 1961 Mid Year Convocation was Penn’s last. The Trustees had already acted to adopt the modern calendar of semesters and in the fall of 1961, the new calendar went into effect. This photograph was taken on Saturday, 4 February 1961; the photographer is unknown.

Collections of the University Archives and Records Center.
“The organization which disregards individual development does so at its own peril,” he said. “And in this day and age it is equally dangerous for an organization to become the victim of a ‘conformity complex’ among its people. No organization can be anything more than a cross-section of the individuals it comprises.”

Dr. Gaylord P. Harnwell, president of the university, conferred the degrees in course and also nine honorary degrees at the exercises, which opened at 10:15 a.m. in the Municipal Auditorium. A special citation was given Dr. Eugene B. Ormandy, conductor and music director of the Philadelphia Orchestra for 25 years. He already holds an honorary degree of Doctor of Music from the university.

Honorary degrees of Doctor of Laws were conferred on Greenewalt; Mayor Richardson Dilworth; Judge William H. Hastie, of the U.S. Court of Appeals for the Third Circuit; Dr. Arnold J. Toynbee, historian and visiting professor at Penn; Dr. Hugh Borton, president of Haverford College; and Francis Boyer, chairman of the board of Smith, Kline & French.

Two professors received honorary degrees of Doctor of Science, Dr. Eugene P. Wigner, holder of the Thomas D. Jones professorship in mathematics and physics at Princeton University, and Dr. Henry LeRoy Bockus, emeritus professor of medicine and gastroenterology in Penn’s Graduate School of Medicine. The honorary degree of Doctor of Letters was conferred on Dr. Albert C. Baugh, who is Felix E. Schelling memorial professor of English literature at the university.

Presenting the candidates for honorary degrees were Dr. Loren C. Eiseley, provost of the university; Dr. I. S. Ravdin, vice president for medical affairs; and Dr. Alfred H. Williams, chairman of the university’s trustees. Deans of the respective schools presented their graduating classes, the members of which come from 43 States, the District of Columbia, Puerto Rico, and 38 foreign countries.

Cash awards of $500 to $1,000 were announced for five members of the faculty in recognition of “distinguished teaching.” The awards were made possible through funds from the Christian R. and Mary F. Lindback Foundation. Recipients were Dr. Baugh; Dr. W. Carlton Harris, professor of finance; Dr. Merkel H. Jacobs, emeritus professor of physiology; Dr. Edward Rose, professor of clinical medicine; and Dr. Roy G. Williams, professor of anatomy.

Fifty years ago, the University of Pennsylvania held its annual Commencement ceremony at the Municipal Auditorium, which was located on South 34th Street, where the Perelman Center for Advanced Medicine now stands. In 1961, Penn President Gaylord P. Harnwell presided at Commencement and conferred forty-eight different degrees, recommended by the faculties of nineteen different schools, to 2,246 graduates. He also conferred 137 certificates of proficiency, 106 diplomas, and seventy-five military commissions. The University’s guests of honor were the nine recipients of honorary degrees, led by the Commencement speaker, Crawford H. Greenewalt.

In 1961, Crawford Hallock Greenewalt (1902 – 1993) was one of the leading corporate executives in the nation. Born in Massachusetts, raised in Philadelphia, educated at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, Greenewalt returned to Philadelphia in 1922 and began his forty-five-year career with E.I. du Pont de Nemours & Company. In 1948 he was elected President of the du Pont Company and served in that position for fourteen years. In 1962, he would be elected Chairman of the Company’s Board of Directors and he would hold that position for five years, until his retirement in 1967. In 1951, Time magazine had honored Greenewalt by placing him on the cover of its weekly publication. A decade later, the University of Pennsylvania honored him in similar fashion, by awarding him its honorary degree of Doctor of Laws.

Penn in 2011

Excerpts from
“A Vibrant Intellectual and Professional Home at Penn”

Almanac

for 11 January 2011

Happy New Year and welcome back to Penn! Returning to my office from home after winter’s break, I watch our community assume a familiar rhythm, and see our campus come alive with the activities and excitement of a new semester. I feel fortunate to have a vibrant intellectual and professional home to return to after the holidays. That Penn is truly a home was foretold by our founder, Benjamin Franklin, when he noted that, “A house is not a home unless it contains food and fire for the mind as well as the body.”

Of course, the strength of any home depends on the strength not only of its members, but also of its community. Penn is stronger when we engage with our neighbors. Last fall, Penn received a well-earned national recognition for our local engagement efforts when we were named “Best Neighbor” among national colleges and universities. Since a New Year is often a time for reflection, I thought this the perfect opportunity to reflect on our ongoing engagement and its impact on our local community.
To survive and thrive, a neighborhood, like a home, must first be built on a strong economic foundation. Our economic commitment to West Philadelphia has produced a robust micro-economy on and around campus, resulting in increasing retail sales, employment, homeownership, and small business development. In fiscal year 2010 alone, we purchased more than $100 million in products and services from local businesses in our own backyard.

Penn’s purchasing power creates job opportunities for members of the community and stimulates growth. To cite just one example, despite the Great Recession, Telrose Corporation, a West Philadelphia-based business that supports many of our offices, has grown over four-fold, profiting from more than $4 million in Penn business last fiscal year.

Our wider economic impact is also evidenced in our most recent economic impact study, commissioned this past fall and released just this month. In the City of Philadelphia, we are the largest private employer, generating $9.5 billion in total expenditures, up more than 45 percent over the past four years! We also support 57,000 jobs and $4 billion in earnings, and contribute $170 million in taxes. We remain an economic, as well as an intellectual, powerhouse. …

The most visible and transformative project currently underway through Penn Connects is the soon-to-be-completed Penn Park, our University’s “front lawn.” At the foot of the Center City skyline, along the west bank of the Schuylkill River, this 24-acre urban park will offer exceptional recreational and athletic expanses…

To complement Penn Park, we will soon begin work on Shoemaker Green, our college commons next to the Palestra. Shoemaker Green will be a welcoming space of lawns, trees-lined walkways, and sitting areas. Both a destination and a pedestrian route from Locust and Smith Walks to Penn Park, it will provide additional green space for recreation and relaxation for the Penn community and our local community. Taken together, Penn Park and Shoemaker Green will add 25 percent more green space to our campus home, already one of the greenest and leafiest urban campuses in the country.

Oliver Wendell Holmes once wrote that “Where we love is home …” For me, and for all of us who are part of the Penn community, I know that this is why we think of Franklin’s University as home. As we return to Penn and begin another semester with the members of our Penn family, as we again engage the, “food and fire for the mind” we find here, let me wish each of you a New Year filled with health, hope, and happiness.

Amy Gutmann
President

In 2011 the Penn Compact with its threefold theme – increasing access, integrating knowledge, and engaging locally and globally – leads the University of Pennsylvania into the future. It does so in partnership with the campus building plan, Penn Connects, and the $3.5 billion capital campaign, Making History. Working together these three initiatives promise to achieve President Gutmann’s objective for Penn: from excellence to eminence. Today, as the University community celebrates the Commencement of 2011, it is useful to reflect on the institution’s oldest traditions and to recognize that Penn is keeping faith with the best of its past.

Mark Frazier Lloyd
Director
University Archives and Records Center
T he practice of sporting signs on caps and gowns as a form of public proclamation at Commencement dates to the early 1760s and recalls an even more ancient tradition, originating in the practice of medieval universities. Penn's archives contain several 18th century broadsides, printed in Latin, which were distributed to Commencement guests along with the regular programs. The broadsides contain a series of propositions classified under various academic headings. Presumably, the graduating students were willing to defend these theses against any assertions to the contrary. On the eve of the Revolution, however, statements such as “the rights of the people are as divine as the rights of their rulers” must have met with widespread sympathy.

ACADEMIC CEREMONY AND REGALIA

Commencement exercises at American universities and colleges traditionally are composed of three essential elements: the Academic Procession, the conferring of degrees, and the Commencement address. This practice has been codified since 1895, when a national conference on academic costume and ceremony was proposed and a plan known initially as the “Intercollegiate System” was formally adopted. The Trustees of the University of Pennsylvania incorporated this code in the Statutes of the University in November 1896. Now under the aegis of the American Council on Education, the “Academic Costume Code and Academic Ceremony Guide” was revised in 1932 and 1960.* Throughout the 20th century, Commencement at Penn has, with minor modifications, followed the dictates of the code and its revisions.

By 1896, however, Penn had been granting degrees for nearly 140 years. Like other American colonial colleges, Penn borrowed its 18th century Commencement rituals directly from the English universities. In England the history of academic dress reaches back to the early days of the oldest schools. As early as the second half of the 14th century, the statutes of certain colleges prohibited “excess in apparel” and required the wearing of a long gown. It is still an open question as to whether academic dress finds its sources chiefly in ecclesiastical or in civilian dress. It is often suggested that gowns and hoods were the simplest, most effective method of staying warm in the unheated, stone buildings which housed medieval scholars. In any case, academic regalia had evolved to contemporary familiarity by the time Benjamin Franklin was awarded an honorary Doctor of Laws by the University of St. Andrews in 1759.

TRADITIONS AND CURRENT PRACTICE AT PENN

In April 1887, on the recommendation of a committee of the faculty, the Trustees adopted the “Pennsylvania System of Academic Costume.” The colors and trimmings of hoods and caps were regularized according to faculty and degree. Beginning with the Commencement of 1887, the “Pennsylvania System” was published in each year’s program and adherence to its rules was expected of trustees, faculty, and students alike. Beginning in 1896, the “Pennsylvania System” was superseded by the “Intercollegiate System,” which has continued in effect to the present time.

The gowns used in American academic ceremonies vary according to the highest degree awarded to the wearer. The gown for the bachelor’s degree has pointed sleeves; it is designed to be worn closed. The gown for the masters degree has an oblong sleeve, open at the wrist. The sleeve base hangs down in the traditional manner. The rear part of its oblong shape is square cut and the front has an arc cut away. The masters gown may be worn open or closed. The doctoral gown is a more elaborate costume faced down the front with black velvet and across the sleeves with three bars of the same; these facings and crossbars may be of velvet of the color distinctive to the field of study to which the degree pertains. The doctoral gown has bell-shaped sleeves and may be worn open or closed. Some institutions have authorized doctoral gowns in colors other than the customary black; holders of the University of Pennsylvania doctorate may wear red and blue gowns.

The hoods are lined in silk with the official color or colors of the college or university which granted the highest degree held by the wearer; more than one color is shown by division of the field color in a variety of ways, such as by chevron or chevrons. The binding or edging of the hood is in velvet, with widths of two inches, three inches, and five inches for the bachelors, masters, and doctoral degrees, respectively. The color of the border indicates the field of study to which the degree pertains. University of Pennsylvania graduates wear a hood lined in red with a blue chevron. The mortarboard cap is standard, though soft square-topped caps are permissible. Recipients of doctorates may wear a gold tassel fastened to the middle point of the top of the cap; all others wear black.

Degrees shall be conferred today according to the following order:

- Arts & Letters, white
- Science, golden yellow
- Business Administration, mustard yellow
- Nursing, apricot
- Medical Science, green
- Law, purple
- Finance, brown
- Dental Medicine, lilac
- Veterinary Medicine, gray
- Education, light blue
- Social Work, citron
- Philosophy, dark blue

ACADEMIC PROCESSION

The order for today’s Academic Procession is as follows:

- Mace Bearer
- President and Provost
- Chairman of the Board of Trustees
- Commencement Speaker
- Candidates for Honorary Degrees
- Deans
- Trustees
- Officers of the University
- Faculty
- Overseers
- Visiting Dignitaries

UNIVERSITY MACE

The Secretary of the University carries the University mace, the symbol of authority of the University, at the head of the Academic Procession. It was a gift of the family of William Murray Gordon, M.D. 1910. It is adorned with the seal and arms of the University, the Penn and Franklin coats-of-arms, a depiction of the Rittenhouse orrery, and a thistle symbolizing the early ties of the University with Scotland.

PRESIDENT’S BADGE OF OFFICE

The President wears as a badge of office a silver medallion of which one face is engraved, like the mace, with the University seal. The obverse of the President’s medal bears the “orrery seal,” designed in 1782 by Francis Hopkinson, A.B. 1757, a Signer of the Declaration of Independence. The medal, suspended on a chain composed of silver links, was given by the late Trustee Thomas Sovereign Gates, Jr., A.B. 1928, LL.D. 1956, on the occasion of Sheldon Hackney’s inauguration as President in October 1981.

UNIVERSITY SEAL AND SYMBOLS

Seal of the Corporation

The Trustees of the University have an official seal that is, in effect, the signature of the corporation. It had its origin at a meeting of the Board of Trustees in 1755 with Benjamin Franklin as Chairman. Though the seal underwent changes over the years, the most recent design, approved in 1932 and adopted in 1933, returned it to virtually its original form.

The seal is composed of seven books stacked on a slanted desk top with the books bearing the following titles, representing the curricula of the day: Theolog, Astronom, Philosoph, Mathemat, Logica, Rhetorica, Grammatica. On the periphery of the stack of books appears the University motto, Leges Sine Moribus Vanae, and the whole is encircled with the inscription Universitatis Pennsylvaniansis.

Penn Coat-of-Arms

The Penn coat-of-arms was derived by combining the coat of arms of Benjamin Franklin and that of William Penn’s family. The dolphin on the red chief was part of Franklin’s coat-of-arms and the three silver plates on a blue chevron were a part of Penn’s. The two were combined on a white shield along with two open volumes representing the University’s educational purpose.

Motto: Leges Sine Moribus Vanae

The motto of the University, Leges Sine Moribus Vanae, means “Laws without morals are useless.” It comes from the longer quotation from Horace, “Quid leges sine moribus vanae proficiunt?” the sense of which is “of what avail are empty laws without (good) morals?”

School Colors

Eighteenth century American academic institutions did not have colors. The earliest known representation of the combined Penn colors, red and blue, is on the incised lid of the 1871 College Hall cornerstone.

One legend traces their origins to an early track meet at Saratoga, New York, between Penn, Harvard, and Yale. When asked by the officials what colors would be representing the Penn team, the Pennsylvania captain reportedly replied, “We’re going to be wearing the colors of the teams we beat,” i.e. Harvard Crimson and Yale Blue. We shall assume that Penn was victorious and thus remained loyal to the Red and Blue.
THE SCHOOLS OF THE UNIVERSITY

THE SCHOOL OF ARTS AND SCIENCES (1755)
The School of Arts and Sciences (SAS) is the direct descendant of the College of Philadelphia, where Benjamin Franklin established the first modern arts and sciences curriculum in the English colonies. Undergraduate programs for men date to the chartering of the College in 1755; the College of Liberal Arts for Women was founded in 1933. The Graduate School was established in 1882 with the appointment of a Faculty of Philosophy. The College of Liberal and Professional Studies (lifelong learning) traces its roots to 1892. The School of Arts and Sciences was born in 1974 with the merger of the College of Arts and Sciences, the College for Women, the Graduate School, and four social science departments from Wharton. Today SAS is the largest of the University’s 12 schools, providing a liberal arts education for all Penn undergraduates and supporting graduate studies, basic research, and continuing education across the full range of the humanities, natural sciences, and social sciences. The School has 26 departments with 483 standing faculty, 21 research centers, five interschool institutes, and 10,000 students.

THE SCHOOL OF MEDICINE (1765)
The first medical school in the English colonies was established at Penn in 1765, and it has set the academic tone and direction of American medical education since that time. Today, the School of Medicine, a leader among the nation’s medical schools, is committed to the highest standards in education, research, and patient care. It is continuously engaged in long-range strategic planning and implementation, focusing on programs and facilities that will take it well into the 21st century. In the current academic year, the School has 28 departments, 23 interdepartmental centers and institutes, and 1,879 full-time faculty members. It educates 746 M.D. students, 150 M.D./Ph.D. students, and 595 Ph.D. students, and trains more than a thousand residents and fellows. Over the last decade, the School has consistently ranked among the top recipients of monies granted by the National Institutes of Health.

THE LAW SCHOOL (1790)
Legal education at Penn began in 1790 with a series of lectures on law by the University’s first law professor, James Wilson, a signer of the Declaration of Independence and one of the original six justices of the Supreme Court of the United States. After a long hiatus, instruction in law was reestablished in 1850 by George Sharswood; in 1852 the Bachelor of Laws degree was conferred for the first time; and in 1888 the course of study was extended from two to three years. Today Penn Law’s pervasive cross-disciplinary program sets the standard in legal education with an innovative program that starts at the Law School and extends throughout the University. More than 70 percent of Law School faculty hold advanced degrees beyond law and 46 percent have joint appointments and affiliations, adding a broad perspective to the classroom. Law School students augment their legal education with classes throughout the University and earn certificates and joint degrees from many of the graduate and professional programs. In the 2010-2011 academic year the Law School has 921 students; 66 standing faculty including 18 associated faculty and clinicians, 5 fellows and 1 senior fellow, 13 visiting faculty, and 94 practitioners/lecturers. The Law School awards four degrees: Juris Doctor; Master of Laws; Master of Comparative Laws; and Doctor of the Science of Law.

THE SCHOOL OF ENGINEERING AND APPLIED SCIENCE (1852)
The School of Engineering and Applied Science (SEAS) is one of the oldest in the United States, tracing its beginnings to the establishment of the School of Mines, Arts and Manufactures in 1852. The first graduate of the School received a Bachelor of Science degree in 1854. Since that time, the School has grown into a center of excellence in the creation of technology and in technology education. Its spirit of innovation led to the creation in 1946 of ENIAC, the first all-electronic, large-scale, general-purpose digital computer, making SEAS the birthplace of the computer age. Today, Penn Engineering offers a wide range of undergraduate and graduate programs, including the first alternative liberal arts program based in an engineering school. Penn Engineering is particularly distinguished by its interdisciplinary, cross-school programs such as Management and Technology, Digital Media Design, Biotechnology, and the Singh Program in Market and Social Systems Engineering. Penn Engineering currently has 110 standing faculty, approximately 1,500 undergraduate students, 1,000 graduate students, four research institutes, ten research centers, and one regional institute.

THE SCHOOL OF DESIGN (1869)
Although the School of Design dates its founding from 1890, architecture courses were first offered at the University of Pennsylvania in 1869, making Penn’s architecture program the second oldest in the United States. In 1921, the Department of Architecture joined with the Department of Music and Fine Arts to create an independent undergraduate School of Fine Arts modeled on the French École des Beaux Arts. In 1958, the School was renamed the Graduate School of Fine Arts, reflecting the shift to graduate degree offerings in architecture, city and regional planning, landscape architecture and fine arts. The triumvirate of architecture, landscape architecture and city planning shaped the core of the School in the 1950s and 1960s. In the 1980s, a program in historic preservation was added. Today, the School provides a rich environment for the study of the arts, architecture, landscapes and urbanism. Its opportunities now include undergraduate study in fine arts, architecture and digital media design. As a more accurate description of the School’s major concerns and advancements made across a variety of fields, the School was renamed, in 2003, the School of Design. The School has a standing faculty of 53, approximately 130 lecturers and associated faculty, and more than 600 students.
THE SCHOOL OF DENTAL MEDICINE (1878)
Established in 1878 as the Dental Department of the University of Pennsylvania, the School of Dental Medicine is among the oldest university-affiliated dental institutions in the country with a history deeply rooted in forging precedents in dental education, research, and patient care. Its first facilities in 1878 were housed in Medical Hall (now Claudia Cohen Hall), and the following year, it moved into its own building, Dental Hall, designed and constructed for its particular needs. In 1897, Thomas W. Evans, a Philadelphia native and exceptional clinician who spent most of his life in France as the dentist and confidant to European nobility, left his estate to create and maintain a dental school that would be “second to none.” Evans’ bequest would become one with the University, creating the Thomas W. Evans Museum and Dental Institute, which opened in 1915 as the best-equipped dental building in the nation at that time. Today, the Evans Building remains the site of much of the School’s clinical and classroom instruction. The dental campus also includes the Robert Schattner Center and the Leon Levy Center for Oral Health Research, home to the School’s basic science faculty and extensive research activities. The School of Dental Medicine is a major provider of clinical care to residents of the West Philadelphia community and also has established innovative outreach programs; through community service learning, students log nearly 9,600 hours each year serving approximately 20,000 residents in the surrounding Philadelphia neighborhoods. The School awards the degrees of Doctor of Dental Medicine and Master of Science in Oral Biology and trains postdoctoral residents in the clinical specialties of endodontics, oral medicine, oral and maxillofacial surgery, orthodontics, pediatrics, periodontics, periodontics/orthodontics, and periodontal prosthesis. In the 2010-2011 academic year, the School of Dental Medicine has 506 DMD students, 86 postdoctoral residents, 23 postdoctoral researchers and fellows, and a total of 438 faculty members, including 45 standing faculty.

THE WHARTON SCHOOL (1881)
The Wharton School of the University of Pennsylvania – founded in 1881 as the first collegiate business school – is recognized globally for intellectual leadership and ongoing innovation across every major discipline of business education. The most comprehensive source of business knowledge in the world, Wharton bridges research and practice through its broad engagement with the global business community. The School has more than 4,800 undergraduate, MBA and doctoral students; nearly 9,000 annual participants in executive education programs; and an alumni network of 86,000 graduates.

THE SCHOOL OF VETERINARY MEDICINE (1884)
Penn’s School of Veterinary Medicine is one of the world’s premier veterinary schools. Founded in 1884, the School was built on the concept of Many Species, One Medicine™. A pioneer since its inception, the School has led the way in such areas as infectious disease research, germ cell biology, animal transgenesis, comparative oncology, and comparative medical genetics. It has also successfully integrated scholarship and research with all aspects of veterinary medical education. The School’s strength in basic sciences, immunology and mathematical modeling are valuable assets for developing strategies to rapidly detect and control the spread of new infections and for improving and developing vaccines that effectively protect animals. In Philadelphia, on Penn’s campus, are the Matthew J. Ryan Veterinary Hospital for companion animals, as well as classrooms, research laboratories and the School’s administrative offices. The Vernon and Shirley Hill Pavilion is home to state-of-the-art classrooms and research facilities for the School. The large animal facility at New Bolton Center, in Kennett Square, Pa., includes the George D. Widener Hospital for the care of horses and food animals, diagnostic laboratories serving the agricultural industry and research facilities to determine new treatment and diagnostic measures for large animal diseases. The School has more than 125 standing faculty and accepts approximately 125 students per year for the four-year program.

THE GRADUATE SCHOOL OF EDUCATION (1914)
The Graduate School of Education (GSE) is a leader in the production of education research and the preparation of education practitioners. GSE is unique among schools of education in its development of custom degree programs, its extensive collaborations in Philadelphia, and its rich collaborations across Penn. The School is organized into five academic divisions, has 36 standing faculty, various research centers, and slightly over 1,000 students. Originally an undergraduate education school and, for many years, a five-year professional school, GSE now provides advanced professional qualifications for educators across the lifespan and offers courses that lead to practice- and research-focused masters and doctoral degrees. The School also offers executive doctoral degree programs and a broad schedule of continuing education courses.

THE SCHOOL OF NURSING (1935)
Nursing Education at Penn began in 1886 when the Hospital of the University of Pennsylvania started a nurse training program. In 1935, the Trustees of the University of Pennsylvania established a nursing degree program within the School of Education, and in 1950 the School of Nursing was established. The Master of Science in Nursing program was instituted in 1961, the Doctor of Nursing Science program in 1978, and the Doctor of Philosophy program in 1984. These innovations and a curriculum which progressively reflects changing health care delivery patterns have advanced the School into the first rank of American schools of nursing. The School has two departments, Biobehavioral and Health Sciences and Family and Community Health. It is widely recognized for its leadership in nursing research and currently houses six research centers with foci in health outcomes and policy research.
biobehavioral health sciences, nursing history, health equity, aging, and transitions in health. It also has a global reputation for innovations in nurse-managed clinical practice and is a World Health Organization Collaborating Center for Nursing and Midwifery Leadership. The School of Nursing has 56 standing faculty and 1,086 students.

THE SCHOOL OF SOCIAL POLICY & PRACTICE (1948)
The School of Social Policy & Practice began in 1908 as a private school that opened its doors to five students in the field of child welfare. The School affiliated itself with the University in 1935 and became a formal school in 1948. In 2005, it changed its name from the School of Social Work to the School of Social Policy & Practice. The School offers the Master of Social Work, Master of Science in Nonprofit/Non-Governmental Organization Leadership, Master of Science in Social Policy, Doctor of Philosophy in Social Welfare, and Doctor of Social Work degrees. The School is devoted to advancing human welfare, promoting social justice, and developing effective societal responses to global human need. Building on the School’s century-long commitment to social work and social change, the School educates clinicians, policymakers, scholars, researchers, and leaders who work to advance the human welfare of local, national, and global communities. The School houses a number of research centers and programs, including: the Field Center for Children’s Policy, Practice, and Research; the Center for High Impact Philanthropy; the Cartographic Modeling Lab; the Social Impact of the Arts Project; the Program for Religion and Social Policy Research; the Out-of-School Time Resource Center; and the Evelyn Jacobs Ortner Center on Family Violence. The School has 21 standing faculty and 465 students.

THE ANNENBERG SCHOOL FOR COMMUNICATION (1959)
Founded through the generosity and vision of diplomat and philanthropist Walter Annenberg, the Annenberg School for Communication at the University of Pennsylvania is devoted to furthering our understanding of the role of communication in public life through research, education and service. At the School’s founding, Ambassador Annenberg identified its unique mission. “Every human advancement or reversal can be understood through communication,” he said. “The right to free communication carries with it responsibility to respect the dignity of others - and this must be recognized as irreversible. Educating students to effectively communicate this message and to be of service to all people is the enduring mission of this school.” Annenberg is nationally ranked as the best graduate program in mass communication, health communication, political communication, and culture, society and communication. The Annenberg School has 20 full-time faculty, over 80 graduate students and more than 200 undergraduate students. The school offers the degree of Doctor of Philosophy, and runs an undergraduate program through the College of Arts and Sciences. The School is home to the Annenberg Public Policy Center, the Center of Excellence in Cancer Communication Research, the Center for Global Communication Studies, the Scholars Program in Culture & Communication, and the Institute for Public Service, among many additional projects pursuing innovative communication research and services.
Honorary Degree Citations

RENEÉ C. FOX

Over the course of your illustrious career in academia, you have integrated knowledge across disciplines to advance humanity’s understanding of the sociology of medicine and medical education, ethics, and research. Your peers around the globe consider you a major figure in 20th century sociology, and the Penn community is forever fortunate that you built your intellectual home here on our campus.

A graduate of Smith College, you received your doctoral degree in sociology from Radcliffe College in 1954 and became a faculty member at Barnard College. In 1969, you joined the faculty of the University of Pennsylvania with a primary appointment in the School of Arts and Sciences, and secondary appointments in the School of Medicine and the School of Nursing. A beloved teacher and mentor, you received both a Danforth Foundation E. Harris Harbison Gifted Teaching Award and a Lindback Foundation Award for Distinguished Teaching. In 1998, after nearly three decades of contributions to Penn, you became the Annenberg Professor Emerita of the Social Sciences.

A celebrated scholar, you have completed field work on four continents and enlightened generations of students and peers by teaching and lecturing in colleges, universities, and medical schools the world over. You have authored or co-authored numerous articles and influential books including Experiment Perilous: Physicians and Patients Facing the Unknown, The Courage to Fail: A Social View of Organ Transplants and Dialysis, and Spare Parts: Organ Replacement in American Society.

Numerous accolades have been bestowed upon you, among them election to the American Academy of Arts and Sciences and the Institute of Medicine, the American Sociological Association’s Leo G. Reeder Award for Distinguished Contributions to Medical Sociology, a Radcliffe Graduate School Medal, and a Centennial Medal from the Graduate School of Arts and Sciences of Harvard University. In 1995, you were named Chevalier of the Order of Leopold II by the Belgian Government, and, in 2007, you received a Lifetime Achievement Award from the American Society for Bioethics and Humanities.

A pioneer in the area of medical sociology, you have combined knowledge from various fields to explore the intricacies of human behavior, interaction, and culture. In recognition of your outstanding academic career and scholarly contributions, the Trustees of the University of Pennsylvania are honored and pleased to confer upon you, Renée C. Fox, the degree of Doctor of Science, honoris causa.

MO IBRAHIM

Asked recently to describe your job in ten words, you responded that you provide “a forum for a coherent African voice on political and economic development.” From your early work as an entrepreneur to your current initiatives to increase accountability and improve governance across Africa, you leverage your talents to benefit the continent you call home.

Born in Sudan to parents who understood the power of education, you excelled in academics and received a scholarship to attend Alexandria University. In 1974, you traveled to the United Kingdom to study electrical engineering at the University of Bradford, and you went on to earn your doctoral degree from the University of Birmingham. After a successful start to your career at British Telecom, you founded Mobile Systems International, a consultancy that advised communications companies around the globe.

Aware of the tremendous opportunity to bring mobile communications to Africa, you launched Celtel International in 1998. That inspired decision created jobs and infrastructure, revolutionized communications across the continent, and generated significant revenue. Seven years and more than six million customers later, the company was sold for $8.4 billion, providing a springboard for your next great endeavor.

In 2005, you established the Mo Ibrahim Foundation to cultivate responsible leaders who promote economic and social progress in Africa. To this end, you introduced the Ibrahim Prize. Consisting of $5 million distributed over 10 years, the prize is awarded to outgoing African heads of state who observe constitutional term limits and encourage good governance. To complement the prize, the Foundation also releases the Ibrahim Index of African Governance, a respected tool that is used to measure progress across the continent.

In recognition of your achievements as a researcher, businessperson, and philanthropist, you have received numerous awards including the GSM Association Chairman’s Award, the telecommunications industry’s highest accolade; the BNP Paribas Prize for Philanthropy; and the Foundation for Democracy in Africa’s Medal of Glory Award. In 2008, Time magazine named you one of the 100 most influential people in the world.

You have harnessed technology to help more Africans share their voices and used your personal success to transform a continent. Today, in recognition of your abiding commitment to improving the lives of your people, the Trustees of the University of Pennsylvania are honored and pleased to confer upon you, Mo Ibrahim, the degree of Doctor of Laws, honoris causa.

NICHOLAS D. KRISTOF AND SHERYL WUDUNN

Exemplifying the highest ideals of journalism and the finest inclinations of the human spirit, you immerse your readers in history-making moments and bring light to the darkest corners of existence. Together, you have met the daunting challenges of our time with courage and demonstrated that every person has the power to change the world for the better.

Nicholas, you graduated from Harvard University and continued your studies as a Rhodes Scholar, receiving a law degree from Oxford University. Sheryl, you received a bachelor’s degree from Cornell University, a Master of Business Administration from the Harvard Graduate School of Business
ELI-MATTHEW WILSON

Administration, and a master’s degree in public administration from the Woodrow Wilson School at Princeton University.

In 1990, together, you became the first husband and wife team in history to win a Pulitzer Prize in Journalism. Correspondents for The New York Times, you helped to bring the Tiananmen Square protests and their aftermath to the attention of people around the world. You have co-authored two insightful books about Asia: Thunder from the East: Portrait of a Rising Asia and China Wakes: The Struggle for the Soul of a Rising Power.

You have also received the George Polk Award for special achievement in journalism, and the Hal Boyle Award from the Overseas Press Club. In 2009, you were awarded the Dayton Literary Peace Prize for Lifetime Achievement in recognition of your “work chronicling human rights in Asia, Africa, and the developing world.”

Nearly two years ago, you published your third book, Half the Sky: Turning Oppression into Opportunity for Women Worldwide. In your call to empower women and girls around the world, you skillfully combined startling statistics about global poverty with heartrending stories of individual suffering and triumphant tales of survival and success. With this New York Times bestseller, you exposed millions of readers to the harsh realities facing half of humanity, and, even more importantly, suggested personal, institutional, national, and global actions that can help create lasting change.

You have pursued your life’s work with integrity, passion, and inspiring tenacity. For revealing suffering that too often remains hidden and for showing us our potential to make a positive difference in the lives of our sisters and brothers around the world, the Trustees of the University of Pennsylvania are honored and pleased to confer upon you, Eli-matthew Wilson, the degree of Doctor of Humane Letters, honoris causa.

JOYCE CAROL OATES

Writing about the nature of humans’ relationship to art, you once noted that “we are stimulated to emotional response not by works that confirm our sense of the world, but by works that challenge it.” Through poems, plays, short stories, novels, and essays, you have challenged our sense of the world and deepened our appreciation for both the familiar and the foreign.

The gift of a typewriter at age 14 ignited your passion for writing. You drafted novel after novel throughout high school and continued writing as an undergraduate at Syracuse University. Before your senior year began, you won the Mademoiselle fiction contest for your short story, “In the Old World.” You earned a master’s degree from the University of Wisconsin-Madison and taught at the University of Detroit and the University of Windsor in Ontario. In 1978, you joined the faculty at Princeton University, where you are the Roger S. Berlind ’52 Professor of the Humanities and a revered professor of creative writing in the Lewis Center for the Arts.

Over the last half-century, you have written more than 70 books, mastering multiple literary forms and slipping into new genres with astonishing dexterity. Whether describing a family’s decline in We Were The Mulvaneys, exploring the psychology of Marilyn Monroe in blonde, or rendering tragedy against the Niagara Falls’ incessant roar in The Falls, you consistently capture readers’ imaginations, often introducing us to new subjects as a result of your own unflagging curiosity.

Earlier this year, President Barack Obama presented you with the 2010 National Humanities Medal in recognition of your “contributions to American letters.” You have received numerous literary awards including a National Book Award, the O. Henry Prize for Continued Achievement in the Short Story, the Pen/Malamud Award for Short Fiction, and the Fairfax Prize for Lifetime Achievement in the Literary Arts. A three-time Pulitzer Prize finalist, you are a member of the American Academy of Arts and Letters, and, in 2009, the National Book Critics Circle honored you with the Ivan Sandrof Lifetime Achievement Award.

One of the greatest authors of our time, you have stirred the emotions and sparked the imaginations of generations of readers. In recognition of your expansive literary abilities, your remarkable capacity to capture nuance, and your educational prowess, the Trustees of the University of Pennsylvania are honored and pleased to confer upon you, Joyce Carol Oates, the degree of Doctor of Humane Letters, honoris causa.

DENZEL WASHINGTON

In your introduction to A Hand to Guide Me: Legends and Leaders Celebrate the People Who Shaped Their Lives, you wrote that “we’re all meant to walk a certain path at a certain time in a certain direction.” As an undergraduate at Fordham University, you found your path to the stage, playing the lead in productions of Eugene O’Neill’s The Emperor Jones and Shakespeare’s Othello. You went on to receive training at the American Conservatory Theater in San Francisco, and your performances have delighted and moved audiences ever since.

A successful run during the 1980s on the popular television show St. Elsewhere launched your career. Over the next two decades, you brought fictional characters to life in films such as Crimson Tide and Philadelphia, and skillfully recreated the lives of real people including South African freedom fighter Steve Biko, high school football coach Herman Boone, and Malcolm X. Your achievements in front of the camera are complemented by your work behind it. Director and star of The Great Debaters, you introduced new generations to the uplifting true story of Wiley College’s renowned debate team and went on to personally fund the team’s reestablishment in 2007.

Your prodigious talents have been recognized with some of the most coveted awards for performances on the screen and the stage. You received the 1989 Academy Award for Best Supporting Actor for your portrayal of Private Trip in the Civil War epic Glory. Twelve years later, your powerful performance as Detective Alonzo Harris in the gritty police drama Training Day earned you the Academy Award for Best Actor. Earlier this year, you starred in the magnificent Broadway revival of August Wilson’s 1987 drama Fences, earning a Tony Award for Best Performance by a Leading Actor in a Play.

You inspire us not only through brilliant performances, but also through your compassionate efforts to support underserved populations. As a child, you spent countless hours at the Boys Club in your hometown of Mount Vernon, New York; today, you are a forceful advocate for the Boys & Girls Clubs of America, serving on the organization’s Board of Governors and as a national spokesperson. In 2004, you received the organization’s highest honor, the Herbert Hoover Humanitarian Award. A good citizen of the nation and of the world, you also support American veterans and their families, and the children of Africa through charities such as the Nelson Mandela Children’s Fund.

The world is more beautiful today because you discovered your path early in life. For embracing the transformative power of your craft, for exploring the depths and diversity of the human experience, and for championing great humanitarian causes, the Trustees of the University of Pennsylvania are honored and pleased to confer upon you, Denzel Washington, the degree of Doctor of Arts, honoris causa.
As final action cannot always be taken by the time this program goes to press, these lists of degree and prize recipients are tentative only. The appearance of a name in this program should not be construed as an indication that the person has received a degree from the University of Pennsylvania. Conversely, the absence of a student’s name herein does not necessarily mean that the person has not been awarded a Penn degree. The student’s transcript is the official record of the University.

As final action cannot always be taken by the time this program goes to press, these lists of degree and prize recipients are tentative only. The appearance of a name in this program should not be construed as an indication that the person has received a degree from the University of Pennsylvania. Conversely, the absence of a student’s name herein does not necessarily mean that the person has not been awarded a Penn degree. The student’s transcript is the official record of the University.

As final action cannot always be taken by the time this program goes to press, these lists of degree and prize recipients are tentative only. The appearance of a name in this program should not be construed as an indication that the person has received a degree from the University of Pennsylvania. Conversely, the absence of a student’s name herein does not necessarily mean that the person has not been awarded a Penn degree. The student’s transcript is the official record of the University.

As final action cannot always be taken by the time this program goes to press, these lists of degree and prize recipients are tentative only. The appearance of a name in this program should not be construed as an indication that the person has received a degree from the University of Pennsylvania. Conversely, the absence of a student’s name herein does not necessarily mean that the person has not been awarded a Penn degree. The student’s transcript is the official record of the University.

As final action cannot always be taken by the time this program goes to press, these lists of degree and prize recipients are tentative only. The appearance of a name in this program should not be construed as an indication that the person has received a degree from the University of Pennsylvania. Conversely, the absence of a student’s name herein does not necessarily mean that the person has not been awarded a Penn degree. The student’s transcript is the official record of the University.
