Tell me and I forget. Teach me and I remember. Involve me and I learn.

- Benjamin Franklin

An investment in knowledge pays the best interest.

- Benjamin Franklin
In the words of one elegiac tribute, “Great men have two lives: one which occurs while they work on this earth, a second which begins at the day of their death and continues as long as their ideas and conceptions remain powerful.” These words befit the great Benjamin Franklin, whose inventions, innovations, ideas, writings, and public works continue to shape our thinking and renew the Republic he helped to create and the institutions he founded, including the University of Pennsylvania.

Nowhere does Franklin feel more contemporary, more revolutionary, and more alive than at the University of Pennsylvania. His startling vision of a secular, nonsectarian Academy that would foster an “Inclination join’d with an Ability to serve Mankind, one’s Country, Friends and Family” has never ceased to challenge Penn to redefine the scope and mission of the modern American university.

When pursued vigorously and simultaneously, the two missions – developing the inclination to do good and the ability to do well – merge to help form a more perfect university that educates more capable citizens for our democracy.

Penn has embodied and advanced Franklin’s revolutionary vision for 275 years. Throughout its history, Penn has extended the frontiers of higher learning and research to produce graduates and scholars whose work has enriched the nation and all of humanity.

The modern liberal arts curriculum as we know it can trace its roots to Franklin’s innovation to have Penn students study international commerce and foreign languages.

The first medical and business schools in the United States were launched here.

And the first general-purpose electronic, digital computer – ENIAC – was invented right here at the University of Pennsylvania.

Impelled by our pioneering legacy, President Amy Gutmann’s Penn Compact 2020 advances the University’s quest to become continually more inclusive, innovative, and impactful. Its bold strategy reinvigorates Franklin’s founding mission at a time of increased global connectedness and rapid technological advancement. The Penn community’s extraordinary support of the University’s strategic priorities, as expressed in our record-setting Making History campaign, enables Penn to work toward the Penn Compact 2020 goals of expanding access for bright students from all backgrounds, integrating cutting-edge research and teaching across the disciplines to promote revolutionary new discoveries, and sharing the benefits of these discoveries through ongoing engagement with our local and global communities.

Today, Penn proudly graduates a class of men and women who have shown the intelligence, drive, integrity, and character to become engaged citizens who will serve humanity with distinction. Our Penn graduates are poised to take their place as productive democratic citizens and as just and humane stewards of our world.

In these challenging and perilous times, a world in need of young men and women who are willing to shoulder the moral responsibilities of leadership can look to Penn.

Franklin wrote: “We may make these times better if we bestir ourselves. The noblest question in the world is ‘What good may I do in it?’”

The answer to this question will be furnished by Franklin’s newest heirs, the graduates of 2015.
Guests will find this diagram helpful in locating the approximate seating of the degree candidates. The sequence in which the candidates are presented for degrees is shown on the next page. The list on page 6, detailing the colors of the candidates' hoods according to their fields of study, may further assist guests in identifying the locations of the various schools.

In case of emergency, evacuation procedures will be announced.

Oh, say, can you see, by the dawn’s early light,
What so proudly we hailed at the twilight’s last gleaming?
Whose broad stripes and bright stars, thro’ the perilous fight
O’er the ramparts we watched, were so gallantly streaming.
And the rockets red glare, the bombs bursting in air,
Gave proof through the night that our flag was still there.
Oh, say, does that star-spangled banner yet wave
O’er the land of the free and the home of the brave?

THE RED AND BLUE
By William J. Goeckel, Class of 1896, and Harry E. Westervelt, Class of 1898
Come all ye loyal classmates now, in hall and campus through,
Lift up your hearts and voices for the royal Red and Blue.
Fair Harvard has her crimson, old Yale her colors too,
But for dear Pennsylvania, we wear the Red and Blue.
(Chorus)
Hurrah! Hurrah! Pennsylvania!
Hurrah for the Red and the Blue,
Hurrah! Hurrah! Hurrah! Hurrah!
Hurrah for the Red and the Blue.

RECESSIONAL
Today – May 18, 2015 — is the University of Pennsylvania’s 259th Commencement. Penn traces its origins to a deed of trust executed in 1740 and is celebrating its 275th birthday this year. President Amy Gutmann will confer bachelors, masters, and doctoral degrees upon some 6,000 graduates of the University’s 12 schools. Honorary degrees will be awarded to seven individuals of distinction in varied fields, as you will note on pages 11, 12, 13, and 14 in this program.

The practice of sporting signs on caps and gowns as a form of public proclamation at Commencement dates to the early 1760s and recalls an even more ancient tradition, originating in the practice of medieval universities. Penn’s archives contain several 18th century broadsides, printed in Latin, which were distributed to Commencement guests along with the regular programs. The broadsides contain a series of propositions classified under various academic headings. Presumably, the graduating students were willing to defend these theses against any assertions to the contrary. On the eve of the Revolution, however, statements such as “the rights of the people are as divine as the rights of their rulers” must have met with widespread sympathy.

ACADEMIC CEREMONY AND REGALIA

Commencement exercises at American universities and colleges traditionally are composed of three essential elements: the Academic Procession, the conferring of degrees, and the Commencement address. This practice has been codified since 1895, when a national conference on academic-costume and ceremony was proposed and a plan known initially as the “Intercollegiate System” was formally adopted. The Trustees of the University of Pennsylvania incorporated this code in the Statutes of the University in November 1896. Now under the aegis of the American Council on Education, the “Academic Costume Code and Academic Ceremony Guide” was revised in 1932 and 1960. Throughout the 20th century, Commencement at Penn has, with minor modifications, followed the dictates of the code and its revisions.

By 1896, however, Penn had been granting degrees for nearly 140 years. Like other American colonial colleges, Penn borrowed its 18th century Commencement rituals directly from the English universities. In England the history of academic dress reaches back to the early days of the oldest schools. As early as the second half of the 14th century, the statutes of certain colleges prohibited “excess in apparel” and required the wearing of a long gown. It is still an open question as to whether academic dress finds its sources chiefly in ecclesiastical or in civilian dress. It is often suggested that gowns and hoods were the simplest, most effective method of staying warm in the unheated, stone buildings which housed medieval scholars. In any case, academic regalia had evolved to contemporary familiarity by the time Benjamin Franklin was awarded an honorary Doctor of Laws by the University of St. Andrews in 1759.

Traditions and Current Practice at Penn

In April 1887, on the recommendation of a committee of the faculty, the Trustees adopted the “Pennsylvania System of Academic Costume.” The colors and trimmings of hoods and caps were regularized according to faculty and degree. Beginning with the Commencement of 1887, the “Pennsylvania System” was published in each year’s program and adherence to its rules was expected of trustees, faculty, and students alike. Beginning in 1896, the “Pennsylvania System” was superseded by the “Intercollegiate System,” which has continued in effect to the present time.

The gowns used in American academic ceremonies vary according to the highest degree awarded to the wearer. The gown for the bachelor’s degree has pointed sleeves; it is designed to be worn closed. The gown for the masters degree has an oblong sleeve, open at the wrist. The sleeve base hangs down in the traditional manner. The rear part of its oblong shape is square cut and the front has an arc cut away. The masters gown may be worn open or closed. The doctoral gown is a more elaborate costume faced down the front with black velvet and across the sleeves with three bars of the same; these facings and crossbars may be of velvet of the color distinctive to the field of study to which the degree pertains. The doctoral gown has bell-shaped sleeves and may be worn open or closed. Some institutions have authorized doctoral gowns in colors other than the customary black; holders of the University of Pennsylvania doctorate may wear red and blue gowns.

The hoods are lined in silk with the official color or colors of the college or university which granted the highest degree held by the wearer, more than one color is shown by division of the field color in a variety of ways, such as by chevron or chevrons. The binding or edging of the hood is in velvet, with widths of two inches, three inches, and five inches for the bachelors, masters, and doctoral degrees, respectively. The color of the border indicates the field of study to which the degree pertains. University of Pennsylvania graduates wear a hood lined in red with a blue chevron. The mortarboard cap is standard, though soft square-topped caps are permissible. Recipients of doctorates may wear a gold tassel fastened to the middle point of the top of the cap, all others wear black.

Degrees shall be conferred today according to the following order:

- Arts & Letters, white
- Science, golden yellow
- Business Administration, mustard
- Nursing, apricot
- Medicine, green
- Law, purple
- Fine Arts (including Design), brown
- Dental Medicine, lilac
- Veterinary Medicine, gray
- Education, light blue
- Social Work, citron
- Philosophy, dark blue

ACADEMIC PROCESSION
The order for today’s Academic Procession is as follows:

Mace Bearer
President and Provost
Chairman of the Board of Trustees
Commencement Speaker
Candidates for Honorary Degrees
Deans
Trustees
Officers of the University
Faculty
Overseers
Visiting Dignitaries

UNIVERSITY MACE
The Secretary of the University carries the University mace, the symbol of authority of the University, at the head of the Academic Procession. It was a gift of the family of William Murray Gordon, M.D. 1910. It is adorned with the seal and arms of the University, the Penn and Franklin coats-of-arms, a depiction of the Rittenhouse orrery, and a thistle symbolizing the early ties of the University with Scotland.

PRESIDENT’S BADGE OF OFFICE
The President wears as a badge of office a silver medallion of which one face is engraved, like the mace, with the University seal. The obverse of the President’s medal bears the “orrery seal,” designed in 1782 by Francis Hopkinson, A.B. 1757, a Signer of the Declaration of Independence. The medal, suspended on a chain composed of silver links, was given by the late Trustee Thomas Sovereign Gates, Jr., A.B. 1928, LL.D. 1956, on the occasion of Sheldon Hackney’s inauguration as President in October 1981.

UNIVERSITY SEAL AND SYMBOLS

SEAL OF THE CORPORATION
The Trustees of the University have an official seal that is, in effect, the signature of the corporation. It had its origin at a meeting of the Board of Trustees in 1755 with Benjamin Franklin as Chairman. Though the seal underwent changes over the years, the most recent design, approved in 1932 and adopted in 1933, returned it to virtually its original form.

The seal is composed of seven books stacked on a slanted desk top with the books bearing the following titles, representing the curricula of the day: Theolog, Astronom, Philosoph, Mathemat, Logica, Rhetorica, Grammatica. On the periphery of the stack of books appears the University motto, Leges Sine Moribus Vanæ, and the whole is encircled with the inscription Universitatis Pennsylvaniensis.

PENN COAT-OF-ARMS
The Penn coat-of-arms was derived by combining the coat of arms of Benjamin Franklin and that of William Penn’s family. The dolphin on the red chief was part of Franklin’s coat-of-arms and the three silver plates on a blue chevron were a part of Penn’s. The two were combined on a white shield along with two open volumes representing the University’s educational purpose.

MOTTO: LEGES SINE MORIBUS VANÆ
The motto of the University, Leges Sine Moribus Vanæ, means “Laws without morals are useless.” It comes from the longer quotation from Horace, “Quid leges sine moribus vanæ proficiunt?” the sense of which is “of what avail are empty laws without (good) morals?”

SCHOOL COLORS
Eighteenth century American academic institutions did not have colors. The earliest known representation of the combined Penn colors, red and blue, is on the incised lid of the 1871 College Hall cornerstone.

One legend traces their origins to an early track meet at Saratoga, New York, between Penn, Harvard, and Yale. When asked by the officials what colors would be representing the Penn team, the Pennsylvania captain reportedly replied, “We’re going to be wearing the colors of the teams we beat,” i.e. Harvard Crimson and Yale Blue. We shall assume that Penn was victorious and thus remained loyal to the Red and Blue.
SCHOOLS OF THE UNIVERSITY

SCHOOL OF ARTS AND SCIENCES (1755)
The School of Arts and Sciences (SAS) is the direct descendant of the College of Philadelphia, where Benjamin Franklin established the first modern arts and sciences curriculum in the English colonies. Undergraduate programs for men date to the chartering of the College in 1755, the College of Liberal Arts for Women was founded in 1833. The Graduate School was established in 1882 with the appointment of a Faculty of Philosophy. The College of Liberal and Professional Studies (lifelong learning) traces its roots to 1892. The School of Arts and Sciences was born in 1974 with the merger of the College of Arts and Sciences, the College for Women, the Graduate School, and four social science departments from Wharton. Today SAS is the largest of the University’s 12 schools, providing a liberal arts education for all Penn undergraduates and supporting graduate studies, basic research, and continuing education across the full range of the humanities, natural sciences, and social sciences. The School has 27 departments with 495 standing faculty, 21 research centers, eight interschool institutes, and 10,000 students.

PERELMAN SCHOOL OF MEDICINE (1765)
Established in 1765 as the nation’s first medical school, Penn’s School of Medicine, now the Raymond and Ruth Perelman School of Medicine, continues a rich tradition of providing pre-eminent training and education. Today, the Perelman School of Medicine at the University of Pennsylvania, a leader among the nation’s medical schools, is committed to the highest standards in education, research, and patient care. It is continuously engaged in long-range strategic planning and implementation, focusing on programs and facilities that will take it well into the 21st century. In the current academic year, the School has 28 departments, 24 interdisciplinary centers and institutes, and over 2,000 full-time faculty members. It educates 791 M.D. students, 187 M.D./Ph.D. students, and 758 Ph.D. students, and trains more than 1,250 residents and fellows. Over the last decade, the Perelman School of Medicine has consistently ranked among the top recipients of monies granted by the National Institutes of Health.

LAW SCHOOL (1790)
Penn’s engagement in legal education began in 1790 with a series of lectures to President Washington and his cabinet by James Wilson, the University’s first law professor, a signor of the Declaration of Independence, and one of the original justices of the Supreme Court of the United States. A formal program of instruction in law was established in 1850 under George Sharswood, and innovative legal education has been part of the Penn fabric since that time. Today, Penn Law provides a cross-disciplinary, globally-focused legal education taught by preeminent scholars, approximately 70 percent of whom hold advanced degrees in fields in addition to law. Students augment the teaching provided by Penn Law faculty with classes taken – and certificates of study and joint degrees earned – in sister schools and departments throughout the University. In the 2014-2015 academic year, Penn Law has 890 students, 64 full-time faculty, and more than 100 lecturers from legal practice. Penn Law awards five degrees: Juris Doctor; Master of Laws for internationally trained lawyers; Master of Comparative Laws; Doctor of the Science of Law; and a Master’s in Law for non-lawyers.

SCHOOL OF ENGINEERING AND APPLIED SCIENCE (1852)
The School of Engineering and Applied Science (SEAS) is one of the oldest in the United States, tracing its beginnings to the establishment of the School of Mines, Arts and Manufactures in 1852. The first graduate of the School received a Bachelor of Science degree in 1854. Since that time, the School has grown into a center of excellence in the creation of technology and in technology education. Its spirit of innovation led to the creation in 1946 of ENIAC, the first all-electronic, large-scale, general-purpose digital computer, making SEAS the birthplace of the computer age. Today, Penn Engineering offers a wide range of undergraduate and graduate programs, including the first alternative liberal arts program based in an engineering school. Penn Engineering is particularly distinguished by its interdisciplinary, cross-school programs such as Management and Technology, Digital Media Design, Biotechnology, and the Singh Program in Networked and Social Systems Engineering. Penn Engineering currently has 119 standing faculty, approximately 1,600 undergraduate students, 1,000 graduate students, four research institutes, ten research centers, and one regional institute.

SCHOOL OF DESIGN (1869)
Although the School of Design dates its founding from 1890, architecture courses were first offered at the University of Pennsylvania in 1869, making Penn’s architecture program the second oldest in the United States. In 1921, the Department of Architecture joined with the Department of Music and Fine Arts to create an independent undergraduate School of Fine Arts modeled on the French École des Beaux Arts. In 1958, the School was renamed the Graduate School of Fine Arts, reflecting the shift to graduate degree offerings in architecture, city and regional planning, landscape architecture and fine arts. The triumvirate of architecture, landscape architecture and city planning shaped the core of the School in the 1950s and 1960s. In the 1980s, a program in historic preservation was added. Today, the School provides a rich environment for the study of the arts, architecture, landscapes and urbanism. Its opportunities now include undergraduate study in fine arts, architecture and digital media design. As a more accurate description of the School’s major concerns and advancements made across a variety of fields, the School was renamed, in 2003, the School of Design. The School has a standing faculty of 35, approximately 130 lecturers and associated faculty, and more than 600 students.

SCHOOL OF DENTAL MEDICINE (1878)
Established in 1878 as the Dental Department of the University of Pennsylvania, the School of Dental Medicine is among the oldest university-affiliated dental institutions in the country with a history deeply rooted in forging precedents in dental education, research, and patient care. In 1897, Thomas W. Evans, a Philadelphia native and clinician who spent most of his life in France as the dentist to European nobility, left his estate to create a dental school that was “second to none.” Evans’ bequest would become one with the University, creating the Thomas W. Evans Museum and Dental Institute, which opened in 1915. Today, the Evans Building remains the site of much of the School’s clinical instruction. The dental campus also includes the Robert Schattner Center and the Leon Levy Center for Oral Health Research, home to the basic sciences and extensive research activities. Penn Dental Medicine is a major provider of care in West Philadelphia and through outreach programs students log nearly 9,600 hours each year serving approximately 14,000 residents in the surrounding Philadelphia neighborhoods. The School offers the degrees of Doctor of Dental Medicine, Master of Science in Oral Biology, and Doctor of Science in Dentistry and trains postdoctoral residents in endodontics, oral medicine, oral and maxillofacial surgery, orthodontics, pediatrics, periodontics, periodontics/orthodontics, and periodontal/prosthesis. In the 2014-2015 academic year, Penn Dental Medicine has 531 DMD students, 107 postdoctoral residents, 13 of which are enrolled in the Doctor of Science in Dentistry Program and 23 are in the Master of Science in Oral Biology Program, 18 postdoctoral researchers and 440 faculty members, including 42 standing faculty.

WHARTON SCHOOL (1881)
The Wharton School of the University of Pennsylvania, founded in 1881, is recognized globally for its intellectual leadership and ongoing innovation across every major discipline of business education. The most comprehensive source of business knowledge in the world, Wharton bridges research and practice through its broad engagement with the global business community. The school has more than 5,000 undergraduate, MBA and doctoral students; nearly 10,000 participants annually in its executive education programs; and a network of 93,000 alumni in 140 countries.

SCHOOL OF VETERINARY MEDICINE (1884)
Penn Vet is a global leader in veterinary medicine education, research, and clinical care. Founded in 1884, Penn Vet is the only veterinary school developed in association with a medical school. The school is a proud member of the One Health initiative, linking human, animal, and environmental health. Penn Vet serves a diverse population of animals at its two campuses, which include extensive diagnostic and research laboratories. Ryan Hospital in Philadelphia provides care for dogs, cats, and other domestic/companion animals, handling more than 31,000 patient visits a year. New Bolton Center, Penn Vet’s large-animal hospital on nearly 700 acres in rural Kennett Square, PA, cares for horses and livestock/farm animals. The hospital handles more than 4,000 patient visits a year, while the Field Service treats nearly 36,000 at local farms. In addition, New Bolton Center’s campus includes a swine center, working dairy, and poultry unit that provide valuable research for the agriculture industry.

GRADUATE SCHOOL OF EDUCATION (1914)
Currently celebrating its Centennial, the Graduate School of Education (GSE) is one of the nation’s premier research education schools. No other education school enjoys a university environment as supportive of practical knowledge-building as the Ivy League’s University of Pennsylvania. The School is notably entrepreneurial, launching innovative degree programs for practicing professionals and unique partnerships with local educators, and the first-ever business plan competition devoted exclusively to educational products and programs. GSE is home to 35 standing faculty members and serves over 2,000 students; offers 25 programs and five degree options; and engages in both research and practice through over 20 centers and initiatives.

SCHOOL OF NURSING (1935)
Nursing Education at Penn began in 1886 when the Hospital of the University of Pennsylvania started a nurse training program. In 1935, the Trustees of the University of Pennsylvania established a nursing degree program within the School of Education, and in 1950 the School of Nursing was established. The Master of Science in Nursing program was instituted in 1961, the Doctor of Nursing Science program in 1978, and the Doctor of Philosophy program in 1984. These innovations and a curriculum which progressively reflects changing health care delivery patterns have advanced the School into the first rank of American schools of nursing. The School has two departments, Biobehavioral and Health Sciences and Family and Community Health. It is widely recognized for its leadership in nursing research and currently houses six research centers with foci in health outcomes and policy research, biobehavioral health sciences, nursing history, health equity, aging, and transitions in health. It also has a global reputation for innovations in nurse-managed clinical practice and is a World Health Organization Collaborating Center for Nursing and Midwifery Leadership. The School of Nursing has 59 standing faculty and 1,180 students.

SCHOOL OF SOCIAL POLICY & PRACTICE (1948)
The School of Social Policy & Practice began in 1908 as a private school that opened its doors to five students in the field of child welfare. The School affiliated itself with the University in 1935 and became a formal school in 1948. In 2005, it changed its name from the School of Social Work to the School of Social Policy & Practice. The School offers the Master of Social Work, Master of Science in Nonprofit Leadership, Master of Science in Social Policy, Doctor of Philosophy in Social Welfare, and Doctor of Social Work degrees. The School is devoted to advancing human welfare, promoting social justice, and developing effective societal responses to global human need. Building on the School’s century-long commitment to social work and social change, the School educates clinicians, policymakers, scholars, researchers, and leaders who work to advance the human welfare of local, national, and global communities. The School houses a number of research centers and programs, including: the Field Center for Children’s Policy, Practice, and Research; the Center for High Impact Philanthropy; the Social Impact... of the Arts Project; the Program for Religion and Social Policy Research; the Goldring Re-entry Initiative; the Penn Aging Concentration; the Child Well-Being & Child Welfare Specialization; the Program in Mental Health Education Assessment, Recovery, and Leadership for Social Workers; the Out-of-School Time Resource Center; and the Evelyn Jacobs Ortner Center on Family Violence. The School has 22 standing faculty and 472 students.

ANNENBERG SCHOOL FOR COMMUNICATION (1959)

Founded through the generosity and vision of diplomat and philanthropist Walter Annenberg, the Annenberg School for Communication at the University of Pennsylvania is devoted to furthering our understanding of the role of communication in public life through research, education and service. At the School’s founding, Ambassador Annenberg identified its unique mission. “Every human advancement or reversal can be understood through communication,” he said. “The right to free communication carries with it responsibility to respect the dignity of others - and this must be recognized as irreversible. Educating students to effectively communicate this message and to be of service to all people is the enduring mission of this school.”

Annenberg is nationally ranked as the best graduate program in mass communication, health communication, political communication, and culture, society and communication. The Annenberg School has 23 full-time faculty, over 80 graduate students and more than 200 undergraduate students. The school offers the degree of Doctor of Philosophy, and runs an undergraduate program through the College of Arts and Sciences. The School is home to the Annenberg Public Policy Center, the Center of Excellence in Cancer Communication Research, the Center for Global Communication Studies, the Scholars Program in Culture & Communication, the Project for Advanced Research in Global Communication, the Communication Neuroscience Lab, the Network Dynamics Group, the Social Action Lab, and the Institute for Public Service, among many additional projects pursuing innovative communication research and services.
HONORARY DEGREE CITATIONS

ARTHUR K. ASBURY
You are the child, grandchild, and great-grandchild of physicians. Nonetheless, you contemplated other professions while a University of Kentucky undergraduate and during active duty in the U.S. Army Reserve. But a hospital summer job at the University of Cincinnati College of Medicine unexpectedly sparked what became a deep and abiding interest in neurology. It led to an unmatched medical career spanning more than six decades, a career marked by dedication, leadership, and service.

After completing postgraduate training at Massachusetts General Hospital and Harvard Medical School, you served as Chief of Neurology at the San Francisco Veterans Administration Medical Center and Vice Chair of Neurology at the University of California, San Francisco. You arrived at Penn in 1973 where you earned deep respect as an expert and compassionate caregiver, a trusted mentor, and a gifted educator. You held the roles of Chair of Neurology and Vice Dean for Research and for Faculty Affairs. On two occasions, you stepped in when called upon to act as Interim Dean of the School of Medicine, and during a period of critical transition for Penn's Medical Center, as its Executive Vice President. In 1983, you were named the Van Meter Professor of Neurology, earning emeritus status in 1997.

You are renowned for your clinical and experimental studies of the peripheral neuropathies seen with chronic kidney failure and diabetes mellitus. Your findings on the autoimmune neuropathy Guillain-Barré syndrome are credited with a greater understanding of its causes, variants, and more effective treatments. Over 230 articles, chapters, and books and hundreds of lectures attest to your contributions to research. You edited the definitive reference texts of your field, served as Chief Editor of the prestigious Annals of Neurology, and led a great many professional organizations, including terms as president of the American Neurological Association and the Association of University Professors of Neurology. Election to the Institute of Medicine of the National Academy of Sciences and as a fellow of the American Association for the Advancement of Science and the Royal College of Physicians are among your many honors. You have received the Lifetime Achievement Award of the World Federation of Neurology and the Meritorious Service Award of the College of Physicians of Philadelphia. At Penn, you received the I.S. Ravdin Master Clinician Award as well as the Lindbeck Award for Teaching Excellence. Most impressively, the Arthur K. Asbury Award for Outstanding Faculty Mentoring was established in your honor.

In recognition of your extraordinary example as a doctor, scientist, educator, and mentor throughout a career dedicated to advancing knowledge and service to others, the Trustees of the University of Pennsylvania are honored and pleased to confer upon you, Arthur K. Asbury, the degree of Doctor of Sciences, honoris causa.

LEE C. BOLLINGER
As one of our country's foremost First Amendment scholars, you have helped us reach a better understanding of our most essential American rights. You have written movingly about the emergence of a universal yearning for freedoms we may have once considered uniquely American. In a rapidly changing world no longer bound by isolated marketplaces and limited communication, you ask us to consider an evolution to international norms of free speech and free press as a means of addressing complex new challenges of public interest. Your most recent book, Uninhibited, Robust, and Wide-Open: A Free Press for a New Century, explores the challenges of a free press within this new environment of global change.

A native of California and a graduate of the University of Oregon and Columbia Law School, you served as law clerk for U.S. Supreme Court Chief Justice Warren Burger. In 1973, you joined the University of Michigan Law School faculty, where you later served as dean.

From 1996 to 2002, as president of the University of Michigan, you led the school's historic litigation in two U.S. Supreme Court decisions that upheld the importance of diversity as a compelling justification for affirmative action in higher education. Today you remain a strong and vocal advocate for efforts to ensure racially and culturally diverse student bodies at our colleges and universities. You urge us to remember that our nation's struggle with race is not over, and that our country's history provides critical context for comprehending the enduring barriers faced by many of our citizens.

Since 2002 you have served as Columbia University's nineteenth president, where, in recognition of your scholarship, you were named the first Seth Low Professor of the University. Through your leadership, vision, and stewardship, Columbia stands today among the world's leading universities. The university looks forward with great anticipation to 2016, when a building dedicated to the sciences and neurosciences will open an expansive new Manhattanville campus. Eight Global Centers for education and research across four continents, established during your presidency, distinguish the university's influential international presence.

A fellow of both the American Academy of Arts and Sciences and the American Philosophical Society, you are the recipient of the National Humanitarian Award from the National Conference for Community and Justice and the NAACP Legal Defense and Educational Fund's National Equal Justice Award.

For your insightful scholarship offering a deeper understanding of our fundamental First Amendment rights, your tireless leadership in higher education, and your enduring contributions in support of true access in higher education, the Trustees of the University of Pennsylvania are honored and pleased to confer upon you, Lee C. Bollinger, the degree of Doctor of Laws, honoris causa.

JOAN MYERS BROWN
As an aspiring young dancer, you sought classical ballet education to nurture your talent and your dreams of a life on the stage. But you found that doors were closed to you. Undeterred, you refused to be shut out by discrimination and bias. By great determination and hard work, you have built an unmatched legacy as an artist, choreographer, teacher, and mentor. Yours is a spirit emblematic of your native Philadelphia.

You found early success performing in segregated clubs with legendary artists Cab Calloway and Sammy Davis, Jr. In 1960, to offer opportunity to others, you opened the Philadelphia School of Dance Arts. Later, seeing the limited professional prospects for dancers of color, you also founded the Philadelphia Dance Company. Now 45 years strong, PHILADANCO, whose work is rooted in jazz, ballet, and modern dance traditions, is Philadelphia’s premier contemporary dance company, known the world over for rigorous classical training and superb interpretation, grace, and athleticism.

As PHILADANCO’s Executive Artistic Director, you have enthusiastically supported the young careers of dancers and choreographers and promoted community awareness of the arts. The demands of your work range from shepherding your company through nearly 100 yearly appearances worldwide to creatively addressing financial challenges, on one occasion marshaling crowdfunding resources to replace a broken furnace that threatened to leave dancers in the cold. All challenges are met with your trademark confidence, though you do admit to impatience with dance’s persistent racial barriers, insisting that PHILADANCO is not simply a black dance company, but most decidedly an American dance company.

Among your many accolades are the National Medal of Arts presented by President Obama in 2012. You have been named a Kennedy Center Master of African American Choreography. You are a Distinguished Daughter of African American Choreography. You are a Distinguished Daughter of African American Choreography. A founder of the International Conference of Black Dance Companies and co-founder of the Coalition of African American Cultural Organizations, you have also provided your good counsel on the boards of Arts America, the National Endowment for the Arts, and on the choreographer’s panel of the Rockefeller Foundation Arts & Humanities Program. Your exceptional life’s work has been chronicled by dance scholar Brenda Dixon Gottschald and is featured in the upcoming documentary, Black Ballerina. In addition, you have for years served as a Distinguished Visiting Professor at Philadelphia’s University of the Arts and as a member of Howard University’s dance faculty.

For your devotion to teaching and mentoring generations of artists and your tireless efforts to bring the beauty and artistry of dance to your city and beyond, the Trustees of the University of Pennsylvania are honored and pleased to confer upon you, Joan Myers Brown, the degree of Doctor of Arts, honoris causa.

RITA MORENO

You are one of only a handful of extraordinary performers to achieve the EGOT - the “grand slam” of the Emmy, Grammy, Oscar, and Tony awards. In a career spanning more than seven decades, you have crafted an incomparable career as an actor, singer, and dancer in film, on television, and the stage, even as you have fought to overcome discrimination within your industry and stereotypes of ethnicity, gender, and age.

Born Rosita Dolores Alverio in Puerto Rico, you first arrived in New York at age five. Your love for performance was already evident, and by your teens you had appeared on radio and Broadway and in your first film. An MGM film contract in Hollywood and a new stage name soon followed. You have gone on to appear in over 40 films, including Singin’ in the Rain and The King and I. Your indelible portrayal of Anita in West Side Story garnered you the Academy Award in 1961, the first ever by a Latina actress.

Your innumerable roles are a testament to your incredible range: you’ve been a princess, a sensitive juvenile delinquent, and the nun Sister Pete, a maximum security prison psychologist on the acclaimed HBO series Oz. You voiced Mimi the macaw in the film Rio 2, and played a “third rate” entertainer in The Ritz on Broadway. You received an Emmy for your work on the PBS show The Electric Company, whose episodes famously opened with your shout: “HEY YOU GUYS!” The show was beloved by children in the 1970s and through rebroadcasts, by those in the ’80s, the ’90s, and now the YouTube generation as well. In 2011, you played a most important role—yourself—in the one-woman show, Life Without Makeup.

Your forthright memoir was an instant 2013 New York Times bestseller. And through the years, you have offered your voice to raise awareness for many causes, including racial inequality, breast cancer, hunger, and AIDS. You have offered your experience as a commissioner for The President’s White House Fellowships and a member of the President’s Committee on the Arts and Humanities.

Today, you are one of your industry’s busiest performers. It is no surprise that last year, your peers awarded you the Screen Actors Guild Life Achievement Award, its most prestigious honor. You are also the proud recipient of the Presidential Medal of Freedom and the National Medal of Arts.

For generously sharing your passion for creative expression throughout a career marked by resilience, perseverance, and strength, and for the gifts of your enduring contributions to our collective artistic consciousness, the Trustees of the University of Pennsylvania are honored and pleased to confer upon you, Rita Moreno, the degree of Doctor of Arts, honoris causa.

ELLEN OCHOA

Not every scientist receives fan mail. But through the years, as schoolchildren have learned of your story of determination and hard work as the first Hispanic woman to go to space, thousands of letters have arrived at NASA. These letters, often sharing young dreams of a future in the sciences, testify to your example as a role model, particularly for students from communities traditionally under-represented in science careers.

Your own passion for learning and research led to a Master of Science and a Ph.D. in electrical engineering from Stanford University, and you were undeterred as you reached for your goals in a male-dominated field. Your research at Stanford, Sandia National Laboratories, and the NASA Ames Research Center led to three patents as a co-inventor of optical systems for information processing.

Intrigued by the prospect of research in space, you applied for and were accepted into the astronaut program. Your inaugural flight in 1993 was a nine-day mission aboard the space shuttle Discovery. You went on to log nearly 1,000 hours in space over four missions as a mission specialist, flight engineer, and payload commander. On the ground, you had many roles, including directing flight crew operations and as CAPCOM, the sole astronaut designated to communicate with the crew during space flight.

In 2012, you were named the Director of NASA’s Lyndon B. Johnson Space Center in Houston, its first Hispanic director and only the second female to serve in that role. The Center is home to Mission Control, the astronaut corps, and a workforce of 13,000 responsible for International Space Station operations and all aspects of space flight.

The Center also has an important educational mission grounded in the belief that student success, particularly in STEM - science, technology, engineering, and math - is critical for our country’s future. Programs for educators and for students of all ages have elicited tremendous interest - over 100,000 students took on a NASA challenge to investigate space radiation, an obstacle for long-duration human exploration.

NASA has awarded you several medals for your distinguished service and outstanding leadership. You are the recipient of the Harvard Foundation Science Award, the Women in Aerospace Outstanding Achievement Award, and the Hispanic Engineer Albert Baez Award for Outstanding Technical Contribution to Humanity. You are also a fellow of the American Institute of Aeronautics and Astronautics and take great pride that four public elementary and middle schools bear your name.

For your courageous service and continuing efforts to advance a greater understanding of our home planet and beyond, and for your dedication to inspiring new generations of explorers, the Trustees of the University of Pennsylvania are honored and pleased to confer upon you, Ellen Ochoa, the degree of Doctor of Sciences, honoris causa.

SAMANTHA POWER

Reflecting on our world’s daunting challenges, you recently stated that despair is not an option, suggesting instead that we stop to ask: “What can we do to make someone’s life better?” This sense of the possible is the hallmark of your varied and accomplished career. You have championed an understanding that something can always be done and embodied a passionate conviction to inspire us to action.

You are the youngest person ever to fill the Cabinet position of U.S. Permanent Representative to the United Nations. A dedicated guardian of U.S. interests, you at the same time seek to maximize the resources of many nations for the greatest global good. You have demonstrated the critical ability to pay close attention to the immediacy of crises while never losing sight of the long-term investments that can ameliorate the conditions that give rise to instability, extremism, and violence.

You have eloquently shown that attending to the inequalities of the world is fundamentally in our own best interest. Nearly 150,000 followers—including world leaders—receive your frequent social media “tweets” on fundamental human rights and dignity. You have mastered the art of forcefully, but succinctly, highlighting issues of discord, educational disparities, violence against women, and threats to our global health and to the health of our planet.

Born in Ireland and arriving in the United States at age nine, you first dreamed of being a sports reporter. But by the time you received your B.A. from Yale University—having seen unedited footage of the crackdown in Tiananmen Square—it was evident you would not live on the sidelines. From 1993 to 1996, you reported on war and genocide from Bosnia and other far-flung and perilous locations, with your work appearing widely, including in U.S. News & World Report and The Boston Globe. Knowing you could do more, you returned home to attend Harvard Law, graduating in 1999.

As a Harvard public policy scholar, you were the founding executive director of the Carr Center for Human Rights Policy. You taught as the Anna Lindh Professor of the Practice of Global Leadership and Public Policy at the John F. Kennedy School of Government. In 2009 you became Special Assistant to the President and Senior Director for Multilateral Affairs and Human Rights at the National Security Council. You assumed your Ambassadorship in 2013.

Such is your writing’s influence and the power of your analysis that Time recognized you at age 34 as one of the world’s most influential people. In 2003, you won the Pulitzer Prize for A Problem from Hell: America and the Age of Genocide. Your book Chasing the Flame: Sergio Vieira de Mello and the Fight to Save the World was the basis for the award-winning documentary Sergio.

For your example of steadfast leadership through scholarship and tireless public service, and your dedication to the well-being of your country and the rights of all people, the Trustees of the University of Pennsylvania are honored and pleased to confer upon you, Samantha Power, the degree of Doctor of Laws, honoris causa.

CASS R. SUNSTEIN

Yours is the most frequently cited voice in American jurisprudence, and the most wide-ranging mind engaged with the critical challenges that lie at the intersection of cognitive psychology, behavioral economics, public policy, and law. Your insightful analysis has helped us better understand the consequences of human beings’ predictably irrational choices. By illuminating the ways in which flawed reasoning, bias, and misconceptions routinely lead even the most well-intentioned human decision making astray, your work has advanced our ability to design policy that reinforces good choices and avoids the bad.

Behavioral economists observe that when presented with critical life decisions on health, money, and personal welfare, we sift mountains of information, seek others’ opinions, assess costs and benefits, and account for risk. And then, weighing these factors and with great assurance, we very often make unsupported, unwise choices that can undercut both individual and societal well-being. Your response has been not to try to banish bad results by restricting the ability to choose, but rather, through humanistic concepts like “nudge” and “choice architecture” to set the rules so that, as often as possible, the first choice will be the better choice.

You have explored these ideas as the prolific author and co-author of over 35 books, most recently with Wiser: Getting Beyond Groupthink to Make Groups Smarter and Why Nudge? The Politics of Libertarian Paternalism. You have authored hundreds of scholarly articles; your work appears regularly in prominent media outlets; you are widely admired for contributing important insights to the national conversation on topics as varied as the health of the constitution, climate change, gay rights, immigration, and voter registration.

A Massachusetts native and graduate of Harvard University and Harvard Law, you served as a law clerk for U.S. Supreme Court Justice Thurgood Marshall. At the University of Chicago Law School, where you taught for 27 years, you were named the Karl N. Llewellyn Distinguished Service Professor of Jurisprudence in the Law School and Department of Political Science. Today, you are the Robert Walmsley University Professor at Harvard University and the founder and director of the Program on Behavioral Economics and Public Policy at Harvard Law.

Called to public service by President Obama as Administrator of the White House Office of Information and Regulatory Affairs from 2009 to 2012, you brought your insights to bear on an extensive range of fields including environmental protection, workplace safety, healthcare, and agriculture. Your special expertise lay in seeking to balance the costs and benefits of regulations, their economic risks, and their human consequences. In 2013, you served on the President’s Review Group on Intelligence and Communications Technologies, making recommendations that protect privacy and civil liberties yet safeguard national security.

In recognition of your scholarship, keen insights, and thought-provoking contributions to a greater understanding of how we can best pursue public welfare, health, and fulfillment, the Trustees of the University of Pennsylvania are honored and pleased to confer upon you, Cass R. Sunstein, the degree of Doctor of Laws, honoris causa.
As final action cannot always be taken by the time this program goes to press, these lists of degree and prize recipients are tentative only. The appearance of a name in this program should not be construed as an indication that the person has received a degree from the University of Pennsylvania. Conversely, the absence of a student's name herein does not necessarily mean that the person has not been awarded a Penn degree. The student's transcript is the official record of the University.

Candidates for the degree of Master of Arts,
Master of Science or Doctor of Philosophy can be found under the Graduate Faculties listing.

As final action cannot always be taken by the time this program goes to press, these lists of degree and prize recipients are tentative only. The appearance of a name in this program should not be construed as an indication that the person has received a degree from the University of Pennsylvania. Conversely, the absence of a student’s name herein does not necessarily mean that the person has not been awarded a Penn degree. The student’s transcript is the official record of the University.

As final action cannot always be taken by the time this program goes to press, these lists of degree and prize recipients are tentative only. The appearance of a name in this program should not be construed as an indication that the person has received a degree from the University of Pennsylvania. Conversely, the absence of a student’s name herein does not necessarily mean that the person has not been awarded a Penn degree. The student’s transcript is the official record of the University.

As final action cannot always be taken by the time this program goes to press, these lists of degree and prize recipients are tentative only. The appearance of a name in this program should not be construed as an indication that the person has received a degree from the University of Pennsylvania. Conversely, the absence of a student’s name herein does not necessarily mean that the person has not been awarded a Penn degree. The student’s transcript is the official record of the University.
