UNIVERSITY RECORD.

LITERAE, SINE MORIBUS, VANAE.

VOLUME I.

UNIVERSITY OF PENNA., JUNE 27, 1867. (No. 2)

Secret Fraternities. Arranged in Order of Establishment.

DELTA PHI.

ALPHA CHAPTER OF PENNSYLVANIA.

A. T. FISHER, W. M. WHARTON.

JAMES C. FISHER, Jr.

MEDICAL DEPARTMENT.

GEORGE ASHTON CARSON, JOHN R. LARGE, EDWARD LAW, DOW & MILES, CHARLES E. VAN PEIT.

A. T. FISHER, W. M. WHARTON.

JAMES C. FISHER, Jr.

MEDICAL DEPARTMENT.

HARRY C. CHAPMAN, W. WHARTON FISHER, WM. S. JOHNSON, GEORGE G. LENIG, CHAS. H. POOR, JR., WILLIAM WHELEN, ROBERT YOENG.

LAW DEPARTMENT.

A. HALLER GROSS, CHARLES KUHN.

ZETA PSI.

ALPHA CHAPTER OF PENNSYLVANIA.

ACADEMIC DEPARTMENT.

GEORGE H. STUART, JR., GEORGE P. WETHERHILL.

ROBERT M. HUSTON, FRANCIS F. ROWLAND.

LAW DEPARTMENT.

HUGH CRAIG, JR., HARRY T. ECKERT, CHARLES FRY, WILLIAM D. NEILSON, ROBERT M. PATTERSON, GEORGE SHARSWOOD.

DELTA PSI.

DELTA CHAPTER.

ACADEMIC DEPARTMENT.

ROBERT FRAYER, JR., JAMES H. ELLIOT, ALEXANDER WOOD, G. POMEROY ALLEN, ROBERT ADAMS, JR., JOSEPH HOPKINSON, R. FRANCIS WOOD.

HUGH CRAIG, JR., HARRY T. ECKERT, CHARLES FRY, WILLIAM D. NEILSON, ROBERT M. PATTERSON, JOSEPH HOPKINSON, R. FRANCIS WOOD.

LAW DEPARTMENT.

ELIAS L. HOUINOT, J. DENNIS MEBERT, E. GREENOUGH FLATT.

PHI KAPPA SIGMA.

ALPHA CHAPTER.

ACADEMIC DEPARTMENT.

JAMES P. SIMS, JAMES P. WRIGHT.

GEORGE H. STUART, JR., GEORGE P. WETHERHILL.

ROBERT M. HUSTON, FRANCIS F. ROWLAND.

LAW DEPARTMENT.

WILLIAM W. MONTGOMERY.

CLASS ORGANIZATIONS.

CLASS OF '67.

ANAPHEXES.

President: EDWARD F. PUGH.
Vice President: JEROME F. PAUL, JR.
Treasurer: GEORGE H. BALL.
Secretary: CHARLES SHAFFNER.
Executive Comm. : EDWARD S. MILES, WILLIAM H. LEX.

CLASS OF '68.

"FORTITER ET FELICITER."

President: GUSTAVUS B. HORNER.
Vice President: JAMES P. SIMS.
Treasurer: WILLIAM M. WHARTON.
Secretary: GEORGE H. BALL.
Executive Comm. : EDWARD S. MILES, WILLIAM H. LEX.

CLASS OF '69.

"DENTRAS DARE."

President: GEORGE II. STUART.
Vice President: FRANCIS C. PHILLIPS.
Treasurer: HAROLD GOODWIN.
Secretary: HENRY G. WARD.

CLASS OF '70.

"AD ASTRA PER ASPERA."

President: CHARLES B. PARKS.
Vice President: FRANCIS C. PHILLIPS.
Treasurer: HENRY A. GOODMAN.
Secretary: HENRY G. WARD.

CALENDAR FOR 1867-68.

1867.
First Term begins Monday, September 14.
First Term ends Thursday, December 24.

Second Term begins Tuesday, January 2.
Second Term ends Tuesday, March 31.
Third Term begins Thursday, April 2.
Junior Exhibition.

Commencement Day.

1868.
First Term begins Monday, September 14.
First Term ends Thursday, December 24.

Second Term begins Tuesday, January 2.
Second Term ends Tuesday, March 31.
Third Term begins Thursday, April 2.
Junior Exhibition.

Commencement Day.

THE YEAR.

That mystic date, 1867, which so many have looked forward to at once with hope and fear, has at last become a reality. For four long years thousands of young hearts have been excited at its mention. Thousands of brains have toiled with redoubled energy, as the thought of its approach reminded them of the honors it might have in store for them. It has come, and the Class of '67 gathers from the four quarters of the globe to "commence the battle of life independently."

Convinced that "vix sine litera morte est," we enlisted in the army of Letters. We have been "fitted," in the Camps of Instruction, we enlisted in the army of Letters. We have been "fitted," in the Camps of Instruction, we have enlisted in the army of Letters. We have been "fitted," in the Camps of Instruction, we have enlisted in the army of Letters. We have been "fitted," in the Camps of Instruction, we have enlisted in the army of Letters.

The advent of a new Professor. The chair rendered vacant by the resignation of Professor (now President) Schuyler was filled last summer. The name of Mr. J. H. Stille was announced. The selection has been one of considerable note in our own University, on the 7th of June. It is acknowledged to be the last act of President Cadwalader, and is sincerely hoped that it will be the first step in the restoration of the Schuylkill Navy; it was won on the 10th of this month.

The College of the University of Pennsylvania is to be found in another column.

Philadelphia—We mean those who think at all on the subject—seem to have asked themselves the question: "What claims the University has upon them?" and to have thought out how best to answer it. We, answering every title that antiquity, worth, the prosperity and happiness, and welfare of the city, the education and refinement of its children, the honor of the State, the safety of the nation, can create. Before considering these claims, let us inquire into its needs. Fifty, or an hundred years ago, the College was still an independent institution that might have been the design of some philanthropist. Now things are changed; we are not satisfied with the learning that answered our ancestors; the world has moved, and cannot stand still with it. Science has advanced, but our University has not been able to keep pace with it; this deplorable condition was not artfully contrived to prevent the entrance of the new Department of Natural Philosophy and Chemistry. Our University is a State of great material resources, and should every effort be made to improve the lot of the humble, educate men to thoroughly develop them. Additional Professors are also greatly needed in the University. It is intended to build new branches, but to also relieve Professors already much burdened. For illustration, it is out of the question to go through the University thoroughly in struct, in three years, a class, attending to other duties at the same time, in all the branches of Natural Philosophy and Chemistry. Professorships are necessary to make the course, as it should be, elective. A man should be allowed to pursue all the studies which he shall find necessary to qualify him for his occupation, and on the other hand, "the first scholar" should not be compelled, because mixed with what he wants, to study a single branch he finds useless and unprofitable to him.

The College Days, the Commencement Day, the Baccalaureate Sermon have all been changed from the "3d of July" to the "Last Thursday in June." The "Cambridge Days," accompanied by the singing of Alma Mater, is morallly and practically the most important part of the exercise. The University has for years been at a disadvantage in this respect, and this change will improve its position. The regular order of Daily Evening Prayer was then used, the Psalter and Bishop bringing up the rear. After the sermon was a masterly effort, and very impressive. The effect was truly inspiring. The regular order of Daily Evening Prayer was then used, the Psalter and Bishop bringing up the rear. After the sermon was a masterly effort, and very impressive. The effect was truly inspiring. The regular order of Daily Evening Prayer was then used, the Psalter and Bishop bringing up the rear. After the sermon was a masterly effort, and very impressive. The effect was truly inspiring. The regular order of Daily Evening Prayer was then used, the Psalter and Bishop bringing up the rear. After the sermon was a masterly effort, and very impressive. The effect was truly inspiring.

The evening of the Sunday after Ascension Day, the 16th, was marked by the delivery, at St. Mark's Church, by our Rector and Bishop, of the Baccalaureate Sermon to the Graduating Class of 1867. The weather was tolerable, and the custom of the whole Class wearing caps and gowns on all public occasions, as also of attending the Church services, was followed. A large number of the Annual Exhibitions, by the Juniors, had fallen into the hands of our Class. We have received as members during the course, nineteen; we gradu- ate, twenty-one.

This Class attempted to organize in their Freshman year, but owing to local circumstances were prevented from so doing. An organization was, however, effected early in the course of the year.

For some years antecedent to the advent of our new Professor, the University Department of Physics has been an excellent one; Still, the College is not yet on a par with the best institutions in the country. The College of the University of Pennsylvania is to be found in another column.

THE BACCALAUREATE SERMON.

The Class attempted to organize in their Freshman year, but owing to local circumstances were prevented from so doing. An organization was, however, effected early in the course of the year.

For some years antecedent to the advent of our new Professor, the University Department of Physics has been an excellent one; Still, the College is not yet on a par with the best institutions in the country. The College of the University of Pennsylvania is to be found in another column.

THE GRADUATING CLASS.

It has been well remarked, that for a college to be prosperous, the active aid of all bodies connected with it is required. The Class of '67 has largely appreciated this fact, and accepting the lesson it teaches, has lent the University aid in no small measure to the advancement of the University.

On the morning of Wednesday, Sept. 8th, 1863, the Class of '67 assembled in the Assembly room. The roll was called, and fifteen of the number passed the final examination. One of the absent ones has laid his life down in the service of his Maker. We have received as members during the course, nineteen; we graduate, twenty-one.

The Class attempted to organize in their Freshman year, but owing to local circumstances were prevented from so doing. An organization was, however, effected early in the course of the year.

For some years antecedent to the advent of our new Professor, the University Department of Physics has been an excellent one; Still, the College is not yet on a par with the best institutions in the country. The College of the University of Pennsylvania is to be found in another column.

THE YEAR.

The year 1867, which so many have looked forward to at once with hope and fear, has at last become a reality. For four long years thousands of young hearts have been excited at its mention. Thousands of brains have tooled with redoubled energy, as the thought of its approach reminded them of the honors it might have in store for them. It has come, and the Class of '67 gathers from the four quarters of the globe to "commence the battle of life independently."

Convinced that "vix sine littera morte est," we enlisted in the army of Letters. We have been "fitted," in the Camps of Instruction, we enlisted in the army of Letters. We have been "fitted," in the Camps of Instruction, we enlisted in the army of Letters. We have been "fitted," in the Camps of Instruction, we enlisted in the army of Letters. We have been "fitted," in the Camps of Instruction, we enlisted in the army of Letters.

The advent of a new Professor. The chair rendered vacant by the resignation of Professor (now President) Schuyler was filled last summer. The name of Mr. J. H. Stille was announced. The selection has been one of considerable note in our own University, on the 7th of June. It is acknowledged to be the last act of President Cadwalader, and is sincerely hoped that it will be the first step in the restoration of the Schuylkill Navy; it was won on the 10th of this month.

Our Alma Mater—We mean those who think at all on the subject—seem to have asked themselves the question: "What claims the University has upon them?" and to have thought out how best to answer it. We, answering every title that antiquity, worth, the prosperity and happiness, and welfare of the city, the education and refinement of its children, the honor of the State, the safety of the nation, can create. Before considering these claims, let us inquire into its needs. Fifty, or an hundred years ago, the College was still an independent institution that might have been the design of some philanthropist. Now things are changed; we are not satisfied with the learning that answered our ancestors; the world has moved, and cannot stand still with it. Science has advanced, but our University has not been able to keep pace with it; this deplorable condition was not artfully contrived to prevent the entrance of the new Department of Natural Philosophy and Chemistry. Our University is a State of great material resources, and should every effort be made to improve the lot of the humble, educate men to thoroughly develop them. Additional Professors are also greatly needed in the University. It is intended to build new branches, but to also relieve Professors already much burdened. For illustration, it is out of the question to go through the University thoroughly in struct, in three years, a class, attending to other duties at the same time, in all the branches of Natural Philosophy and Chemistry. Professorships are necessary to make the course, as it should be, elective. A man should be allowed to pursue all the studies which he shall find necessary to qualify him for his occupation, and on the other hand, "the first scholar" should not be compelled, because mixed with what he wants, to study a single branch he finds useless and unprofitable to him.

The Class attempted to organize in their Freshman year, but owing to local circumstances were prevented from so doing. An organization was, however, effected early in the course of the year.

For some years antecedent to the advent of our new Professor, the University Department of Physics has been an excellent one; Still, the College is not yet on a par with the best institutions in the country. The College of the University of Pennsylvania is to be found in another column.
The Society of the Alumni

Is the name of Alumni of the University of Pennsylvania an epithet of disgrace, or what reason of any kind can be there for the fact, but too true, that graduates of this time-honored Institution after you leave its walls, never to raise their voices in its behalf, or take any apparent interest in its welfare? Of the many hundred members of the Society, how many attend the single yearly meeting? The scant audience is an inroad to the occasion and to the University to whome they owe so much. Stronger are the sentiments of remonstration and gratitude so wanting in the characters of the majority of graduates of our Alma Mater? Should it be told of a man that he sought, and for a long time the possession of another's bounty, and receiving all the benefits he could, then left his benefactor, avoided ever after his society and turned a deaf ear to his appeals, that man would justly be regarded by the community as contemptible. But why should such an one be held more blameworthy than he who takes all he can from the University, and returns on almost every occasion to own his indebtedness? This is the conduct, sorrowful to say, of the great part of our Alumni, and as such cannot be too severely condemned. There are, however, among the members of the Society, a noble few, whose efforts in its behalf are truly tiring. To them we would recommend now faith in the old motto, "Pro Rege et Civitate," taking them hope that, among their newer members, many will be found willing to assist in the good work, and who will be the means of reaping many dividends to their forefathers allegiance.

Class Day.

Early in the past winter active preparations were set on foot by the Class of '67, with a view to render their approaching Class-Day an event long to be remembered in the history of "old Penn." An Executive Committee was appointed for the purpose of drawing up the Design of the Class, so that the result of their labors was abundantly shown in the success which attended their efforts. The Exercises were held in the Hall of the University, on the afternoon of June 7th. The room was tastefully decorated for the occasion with the National emblems and ornaments of the Class, supported either side by columns of evergreen, gave the stage an appearance of noble simplicity and impressing.

During the Exercises the Germania Orchestra, under the able direction of our Assistant Professor of Music, conducted several choice selections in their usual finished style. Particularly at the close of the Exercises, the Class, attired in their Oxford caps and gowns, and decorated with the regalia of their respective Societies, entered the Hall and took their places on the stage, and the Mandolin Orchestra, the Pointed Hat, and the audience was the largest and most fashionable ever assembled in the classic halls of the University. Every available place was occupied, white hundreds left the building, unable to find their places.

Mr. A. F. Douglas, the historian of the Class, was first introduced to the assembly. The production of this gentleman, replete with significities and harmless allusions to the past and present, was received with such applause as is only rendered to the highest merit. The comic vein which pervaded throughout kept the audience in a constant condition of merriment. At the close, a shower of the choicer exuviae, poured upon in the speaker from every side, unready rewarded his successful attempt.

The Oration, by Mr. W. W. Massey, delivered with his usual eloquence, was enumerated in the most clear and forcible manner, his subject, "What should I do to-day," was considerably better.

The Wooden Spoon was presented by Mr. Arthur Ritchie, to be held by any undergraduate chosen man of his class, who, in the opinion of the committee, was the most creditable impromptu effort on the part of both gentlemen.

The Wisdom Cat was presented by Mr. Charles F. Belden, to Mr. Andrew B. Thornton. This part of the Exercises was not in the programme originally, but was a very creditable impromptu effort on the part of both gentlemen.

The Farewell Song, which will be found in another column of this issue, was written for the occasion by Mr. Oakes, and was ably rendered by the Class. The Class would again thank Mr. Oakes for his very creditable effort on this occasion.

Mr. Peet, the President of the Class, ably presided. Then terminated the brilliant Class-Day Exercises of '67.

Our New Professor.

In the Spring of last year the chair of Belles Lettres and English Literature was vacated by the resignation of Professor Claflin, and the Board of Trustees elected Charles J. Stille. This gentleman had already acquired fame in the higher branches of literature, and had never held a Professorship. He was, however, well and favorably known to our City. He is a man of much energy and enterprise, and several of the members of his family are so, that in the interest of our welfare our institution did not begin with his assumption of this chair.

During the war he became generally known to the country as a writer in the Presses of the United States. In connection with this work, he wrote, "An account of the great Central Fair in aid of the U. S. Sanitary Commission," held in New York City in June, 1863, as a more extended history of the Commission than was ever written to be action: a learned Professor, a polished gentleman, a kind-hearted yet strong man, who for the most part, was more taken up with the business of the Commission, he occupied the chair of History, and he has shown himself a worthy successor of that talented man. Being a native of Philadelphia, he has been engaged in English Literature, Modern Civilization, and International Law, which our class have had the privilege of witnessing, and we have them with pride in the pursuit of these branches. Indeed, we believe we are not overstating the case, in saying that Professor Stille is an irrepressible driving force toward the subject of "Marxist Virtuoso."
The Philhellen Chester Club.

President, - - THOMAS H. LYTEN
Treasurer, - - WILLIAM H. LEX
Sec'y & Recorder, - - HERMAN C. DUNCAN

P. CARROLL BARNES, JR.
GEORGE R. DALE, JR.
ALONSO P. DOUGLAS
ROBERT FRAZER, JR.

Edward F. Pugh
Arthur Ritchie, Jr.
Newcomb B. Thompson
John W. Wright

Societies haying no Chapters.

The Gamma Nu.

PONTIFICUS
SAMUEL B. COLLINS, JR.
VICE-PONTIFICUS
CHARLES E. VAN PEEL

Treasurer
ALONSO P. DOUGLAS

FIRST GRAND SWORDSMAN
GARRETT M. EKON
SECOND GRAND SWORDSMAN
HARRY EXELY
FIRST NEOPHYTE
WILLIAM E. BULL
SECOND NEOPHYTE
WILLIAM R. RICE

ALPHA CHAPTER—UNITED STATES LITERARY LEAGUE.

Regent, - - WILLIAM WAINWRIGHT MARIS
Vice Regent, - - WILLIAM HENRY LEX
President, - - JOSEPH CRESON FRAYLEY
Vice-President, - WILLIAM RUSSEL WRIGHT
Secretary, - - FRANCIS GURNEY DU PONT
Treasurer, - - DAVID HAZEL
Librarian, - - WILLIAM DELAWARE NEILSON

William Alexander Lamberton,
William Henry Lex,
William Wainwright Maris,
Edward Stewart Miles,
Charles Shaffner.

Joseph Creson Fraley,
David Hazel,
Edward Robert White Moore,
William Russel Wright.

Theodore Christian Knauff,
Henry Jessie Maris,
Byron Hart Wright.

William Calbert Cox,
Francis Gurney Du Pont,
William Delaware Neilson.

The Esopus Guards.

Captain of the Field
WILLIAM H. LEX

Colony
Lewis
B. ROGERS
Dobson Banan
Owens McKe

PRIVATE
Barnes
Weyler
Alonge The Brave
Sweat William
Mark O'Connell
Hawaii-Athaw
Cousin Tommi
Three-Fifth of all other Persons
Water-Carrier
Novia Familiaris Fortuna

University Eldeen.

Captain of The Field
WILLIAM H. LEX

William S. Armstrong
William Ashbridge
Edward Law, Jr.
Wm. H. Lex,
Newcomb B. Thompson,
Joseph C. Fraley,
Gustavus B. Homer,
James P. Sims,
James P. Wright,
Maskell Ewing,
Joseph Hopkinsin.