Another year has placed each class in the forms occupied by its predecessors, and we receive the laurels to which, as Freshmen, the y and inclines them to treat with the Sophs for diminishes the courage which no threats could allay, colored by direful tales from. the upper classes, high-hats. But the Examination, terrible to the with those enemies of mankind. the Sophomores, Juniors, and in a ready disposition to do battle easy familiarity with their Magnificences, the in utter contempt of senior dignity, (even daring to every department of the work, and we trust that to every department of the work. and with what a start of dismay we were inspection the rooms of the Society, and then between Students and Professors. In addition to these exhibits, the Trustees announced that, on Thursday, May 22, a cornerstone-stone of the Corner-stone of the New Building in West Philadelph. the description of this occasion will be found elsewhere in our column.

The space of two years brought round in order a Biennial, which on the 28th of December, was celebrated by the Philomathean Society in the University Hall. The Baccalaureate Sermon.

The Rev. Thos. A. Jaggar preached the Baccalaureate sermon before the Graduating Class, on Sunday evening, June 4th, in the Church of the Holy Trinity. The Class assembled in the usual places, after a short interval, Mr. Jaggar delivered a most eloquent and instructive discourse on the text, "And herein do I exercise myself, to have always a conscience void of offence toward God and toward men." Acts xxiv. 16. After speaking of the nature and power of conscience he enlarged upon the necessity of implicit obedience to its dictates, and gave to the young men just embarking upon the "Voyage of Life," some most seasonable advice; showing the folly of.idly indulging in "the false hope of good things sprouting up into eternal life." The musical portion of the service also was particularly interesting; for the Class, in unanimously selecting the organism, Mr. T. S. Darley, from several of the best choral societies in the city. The "Hymn of Thanksgiving" and "Bonum est," arranged from Wagner's "Rienzi," were exceedingly beautiful. The hymn "The Church" was by "The Chapel," by Kreutzer, which was sung to the hymn beginning "Halleluiah, and shall it ever be.

The thanks of the Class are due to Mr. Jaggar and to the other officiating clergy, as well as to Mr. Darley, for their kindness in making the Baccalaureate of '71 such an interesting occasion.

Class Supper.

On the evening of June 2nd, after the exciting scenes and stir of Class Day, the members of the Class were invited to a midnight feast, in the Eleven and Wrath Stu.

Mr. Jaggar delivered a most eloquent and instructive discourse, and after singing "The Hymn of Thanksgiving," "Bonum est," and "The Church," all of which metaphysical term is most applicable.

Three members of the Class, Mr. T. R. Knuth, Dr. Seidensticker, and Professor M'Elroy, favored us with their presence at the supper. After about half an hour spent in conversation, and then the company adjourned to the supper room. From the joyful countenances of all, it was apparent that, for the time at least, we had found in the old Latin motto "Dum vivimus, vivamus." After the repast, music was played by a selected orchestra, under the direction of "our Student Life.

Wren's Song of '71.

Come quickly, comrades, quickly come, For '71 is near, and soon we'll be done. Our days in College are drawing near, Our days in College are drawing near.

We'll never forget in future days, The joints that were so often aches, And to do as we are bidding here, For '71 is near, and soon we'll be done.
