† Really belong in '88; did not graduate with them on account of ill-health.

While the following men did not reply to the questions sent out by the Committee, some of us are more or less acquainted with what they have been doing, and for that reason the following remarks are made:

WILLIAM M. ALRICH after graduation served as Resident in the University Hospital, and subsequently engaged in the general practice of his profession in Germantown, in which he has been successful. He now practises at Carpenter Station, which is really a suburb of Germantown, and members of the Committee see him now and then. He has consistently refused to answer any of the letters of the Committee. He is still single.

Harry Applebach is in the same class with Alrich. In recent years he has devoted himself particularly to abdominal surgery and at the present time assists Dr. Chas. P. Noble in his work at the Kensington Hospital. He has the reputation of being a skilful gynecologist.

Edward M. French gave up the practice of medicine shortly after graduation and has been engaged in business of one kind or another since that time. He has made himself known in recent years to many of his classmates as well as some of his former professors at the University of Pennsylvania.

Henry D. Wilson was not heard from at our Decennial Reunion, but it is learned through the Surgeon-General of the Navy at Washington, that he is now attached to the U. S. S. “Vicksburg” and addressed at San Francisco.

The following men did answer the circular letter sent out by the Committee in 1889, and an abstract of the history then secured is presented in order to make this history as complete as possible. They, however, have made no replies to the inquiries sent out this year. With the exception of Gallagher, Grebe, Price, Rhodes, and Speer all their names are to be found in Polk’s Directory, and it can be assumed that at least they are still alive.

AN ABSTRACT OF THE CLASS STATISTICS.

Pursuant to the wishes of the Committee the following questions were sent out to all the members of the class whose addresses were obtainable:

Name. Present Address. Practised in other places? Where? Married or single? (Name of wife and names and ages of children.) Do you practise general or internal medicine, surgery, or one of the specialties? What hospital and teaching positions do you hold? If any, what branch and in what school? What degrees? Have you written medical articles or books, or entered other literary fields? Give titles of the most important works. Are you connected or associated with medical or other publications, or magazines? Have you ever been in the U. S. military or marine service, or in the military service of your State? Do you use the various sera, such as diphtheria antitoxin, in the treatment of disease? Whom do you consider the most prominent physician and surgeon in America? (Please omit the mentioning of members of the Committee.) What text-book on medicine or surgery do you consult most frequently? Are you a total abstainer, temperate, or drinking man (Reunions are excepted)? What was your weight at graduation? How much do you now weigh? Has your health been good since graduation? Are you bald? Do you wear a beard, mustache, or are you clean shaven? Do you walk, drive, or use an automobile to get about? Are you insured? If so, why? Outside of medicine, what is your favorite hobby? What is your favorite form of physical exercise? Are you satisfied with medicine as a profession? Would you advise your son, if you have one, to study medicine? Have you done any post-graduate work? Have you returned to the University since your graduation? Have

Distribution of the Class.

To these inquiries we have received 81 replies; 35 of the men practise their profession in Philadelphia, 19 in the cities and towns of Pennsylvania, 4 have given up the practice of medicine, while 20 practise in the various States of this country and 1 each in Mexico and Switzerland and Santiago de Cuba. Three men practise in New York City, 3 in New York State, 2 each in New Jersey, California, Michigan, Colorado, and the District of Columbia (Washington), and 1 each in Iowa, Illinois, Ohio, Kansas, Utah, and Washington.

Matrimony.

Sixty-four of the class have been married. Three of them are widowers. Fifteen remain in a state of single blessedness. To the Benedicts there have been born a total of 105 children to 48 couples; 16 of the men have no children. As was the case at our Tenth Anniversary, Drs. Charles N. Davis and Jos. R. Bryan still lead the class with the prize for the children’s cup, their households being adorned with 7 children.

Character of Practice.

Fifty-one of the men practise general medicine; 2 of them limit their work to surgery, while 7 of those practising general medicine also do considerable surgery. Six are specialists upon the eye; 5 confine their work to the nose, throat, and ear; 4 devote their time in the laboratory to pathology and bacteriology. Three of the men do exclusive insurance work. Two of them are alienists. Gynecology, dermatology, diseases of the digestive tract, and x-ray therapeutics, each claim one representative.

Hospital and Teaching Positions.

It is not necessary to go into detail here. Forty-six of the men hold hospital positions; some of them hold two or more in one city or town; the most, however, hold but one. Twenty-six of the men occupy positions in medical schools or instruct classes upon medical subjects. The reader is referred to the detailed history for the men holding professorships. Six of the class have written books, and r3 of the men have seen service either in the army or navy or the State military organizations.

Class Vote for the Most Prominent Physician and Surgeon.

Twenty-eight of the men either have no medical or surgical hero or do not answer this question. The list of the physicians is headed by Dr. Osler, who received 36 votes; Dr. Tyson, 2; Drs. Weir Mitchell and Musser, 1 each. Our friends the advertising medical specialists also come in for their share of popularity, Munyon receiving 3 votes, while Mrs. Eddy and Dr. John Dowie each received 1. Dr. Deaver was the most popular surgeon, having received 15 votes; Keen and Senn received 10 and 8 respectively; J. W. White, Wm. Mayo, and Murphy, 2 each; Martin and Kelly, 1 each. Dr. Duhring, the skin specialist, 1; while the eminent Philadelphia surgeon, Dr. Lobb, received 2 votes.

Text-books Most Frequently Consulted.

Twenty-eight of the men did not reply to this question. Again Dr. Osler's popularity is shown with our class, Osler's Practice receiving 32 votes; Tyson's Practice, 5; Pepper's System, 4; Allbutt's System of Medicine, Strumpell, Wood and Fitz, Hare's Diagnosis, Flint’s Diagnosis, and Anders’ Practice received 2 votes each. Of the surgical text-books, Dr. Ashhurst’s ranked first, receiving 9 votes; the American Text-book of Surgery, White and Keen, 7; Agnew, 5; Bryant’s Surgery, 4; Treves, 2; Dennis, 2; Wharton and Curtis, 2; International Text-book of Surgery, 3. The following text-books received 1 vote each: Wood’s Therapeutics, Butler’s Diagnosis, Fuchs, Posey and Wright, Loomis, Crocker, Park’s Hygiene, and Jacobson’s Operative Surgery.

Habits.

Sixteen of the men confess that they are total abstainers; while 61 acknowledge that they are temperate in the use of alcohol. Four do not answer this question.

Health.

Seventy-six of the men say their health is at the present time good or excellent; 3 state their health to be fair or poor; while 2 make no reply.

Weight.

Most of the 81 men heard from have gained considerable in weight since graduation; in fact, but 3 of them have lost flesh. As far as can be ascertained the total weight of the 81 men at graduation was 11,660 pounds. This has now been run up to 12,935 pounds, a gain of 1275 pounds, or a little over half a ton. At graduation Hileman was our lightest weight, 105, while he now tips the beam at 108 and still remains the lightest weight heard from. Rawlins was probably the heaviest man in the class at graduation; he now refuses to state exactly what his weight was at that time. Kulp was probably a close second at 194, yet at the present time Umsted is the heavy weight of the class, tipping the beam at 215 pounds. The man who has gained most in weight since graduation is C. L. Miller, of Lebanon, who has jumped from 116 to 184 pounds. Miller, however, has not been leading the strenuous life of the practising physician, but has engaged in business. George G. E. Neuber, however, pushes him pretty hard, for he has gained 61 pounds, weighing at graduation 123 pounds, while he now weighs 184.

Quantity of Hair.

Twenty-eight of the men acknowledge that they are bald, more or less; 15 have beards; 55 wear mustaches only; while 11 are clean shaven.

Means of Transportation.

Thirty-three men walk; 36 drive; 15 use automobiles; and 3 utilize the bicycle to see their patients. Kulp states that he does “everything but fly.” Some few of the class utilize a combination of methods, such as horses and bicycle, or automobile and horses.

Insurance.

Fifty-nine men are insured, mainly for the protection of their families.

Hobbies.

Nineteen of the men either state they have not a hobby or fail to answer this question. There is a remarkable diversity of sentiment among the rest, as the following figures will show: Hunting and fishing is preferred by 6; music and photography by 5, each; 5 delight in horses; reading, 3; the flowers, the “woods and fields,” “sleeping,” farming, travelling, mechanics, whist, and theatres, each 2; the following hobbies are ridden by but one man: sailorizing, yachting, poker, fruit growing, “forgetting medicine,” wheat growing, camping, automobiling, American archaeology, real estate, writing, smoking, ping-pong, drug business, “his baby,” biology, and “the inside.”

Exercise.

The exercise indulged in is almost as variegated as the hobbies ridden. Twenty-two men prefer walking; 13 horseback; 10 take no exercise; 6 prefer golf and tennis respectively; 4 bicycling; 3 gymnastics; bowling, 2; while billiards, base-ball, canoeing, farming, driving, sparring, swimming, rowing, squash tennis, and swoboda each have one devotee. The following unusual forms
The photograph gives a good idea of the size of the crowd on such occasions.
of exercise are also mentioned: "reading," "thinking," "sleeping," "rest," "running up stairs," 1 each.

Are Physicians Contented with their Lot?

Notwithstanding its responsibilities, cares, and anxieties 59 men state that they are satisfied with their profession; 14 of them are doubtful about it; while 3 bluntly acknowledge that they are not at all satisfied with their lot in life.

Post-Graduate Work.

Thirty-nine of the men have done post-graduate work of one kind or another; 40 have not. Fifty-eight of the class have returned at some time since graduation to the University; 17 have not visited their Alma Mater, while 5 have made no reply to this question.

Criticisms on Teaching, Past and Present.

But few critical remarks are made. Three or four men still have a feeling of rancor in their hearts toward Pop Wormley and say they had too much of him. Several men complain bitterly of the poor ventilation, etc., during the lecture hours in the old Medical Hall, and one man suggests that money and not brains is the requisite for a chair in the present faculty. The rest consider the present methods of teaching—mainly clinical and classroom, with the minimum of didactic lecturing—a distinct advance over the teaching in '89. A large proportion of the class, 66 in fact, either had no criticisms to make or did not reply to this question.

Who Wrote the Letter?

The guessing contest resulted as follows: No guess, 49; Scott, 14; Posey, 4; Stengel, 3; Tunis, Toulmin, Adams, and Carpenter, 2 each; Kneass, Boger, and Tyson, 1 each.

The letter was originally drafted by J. Howe Adams and some few minor corrections and suggestions were made by the Committee in general. The questions were suggested by J. A. Scott and corrected or new ones inserted by the general committee.

THE DEATH ROLL.

BROOKE, BENJAMIN.

Born at Radnor, Delaware Co., Pa., October 17, 1866.
Died October 18, 1900.

Preliminary education received at Boys' High School, San Francisco. Took Sophomore year at University of California College of Chemistry. After graduation was Resident Physician at the Philadelphia Hospital and was appointed First Lieutenant and Assistant Surgeon in the United States Army, May 4, 1891. After passing his army examinations he was assigned to duty in the West, where he saw five years of active service as Assistant Surgeon and Post Surgeon at several important forts. While stationed at Fort Canby at the mouth of the Columbia River, he contracted a severe cold as the result of rescuing a shipwrecked crew and passengers. He developed pneumonia and this led to other complications in his health, which finally obliged him to retire from active service about two and a half years before his death, with the rank of Captain and Assistant Surgeon. He was unmarried.

Brooke was an unusually pleasant, frank, and agreeable man. He was buried in the historic churchyard at Old St. David's Church, in Radnor Township, Pa., where a number of his ancestors lie.

CASHMAN, NATHANIEL A.

Graduated with our class and after receiving his diploma entered into practice in Philadelphia. He paid some attention, it is reported, to nasal and throat work. He did not reply to the history blank sent out at our Tenth Reunion; so we have no definite statistics in regard to him. For various reasons, however, he made himself known from time to time to many of his classmates in Philadelphia. His health became much broken and he finally died from the effects of tuberculosis. The date of his death is unknown; he was married.

CROSS, GEORGE DANIEL.
Died at Chester, Pa., August 8, 1903.

Was educated at the public schools. After graduation engaged in the practice of ophthalmology in Philadelphia and Chester. For several years he did work at the Wills Eye and St. Clement Hospitals, Philadelphia, and was Ophthalmologist to the Chester Hospital. For a number of years before his death he suffered from the effects of general arterial and aortic valvular disease. He married Rhoda Esther Howard, and is survived by his wife and three children.

FOWLER, CHARLES C.

After graduation but little is known of Fowler. Through some source it has reached us that several years after leaving the University he developed trouble with his lungs and went to Los Angeles, California, for the benefit of his health, and subsequently died there.

GALLOWAY, ALBERT BOLLES.
Born in Philadelphia, October 14, 1866.
Died in Philadelphia, April 14, 1891.

Preliminary education at Central High School, Philadelphia. After graduation served as Resident Physician to the Philadelphia Hospital. Subsequently was Physician on the Red Star Line. His health became impaired first by an acute laryngitis, and he died, presumably from acute pneumonic phthisis, on the above date; unmarried.

GERLACH, E. RUDOLPH.

After graduation entered into general practice at Trenton, N. J. The date of his death is uncertain. He is stated to have died from the effects of a brain tumor.
HOWERTER, EMANUEL L.
Born at Longswamp, Berks Co., Pa., July 15, 1863.
Died in March, 1904.

Received degree of B.A. from Keystone State Normal School at Kutztown, Pa., and studied the Languages and Sciences at Campbell University in Kansas. After graduation engaged in practice at Stony Run, Pa., where he paid some special attention to diseases of the nervous system. Information received from his brother just as the history goes to press states that he died with lobar pneumonia about two months ago.

MILNOR, WILLIAM S.

After graduation became Resident with other men in his class at the Philadelphia Hospital. During the first six months of his stay at the hospital he developed influenza, followed by a purulent pericarditis. He was under the care of Dr. William Pepper and was operated upon for the relief of pericardial effusion by Dr. John Deaver. He died shortly after the operation.

PATRICK, WILLIAM S.

Nothing has been discovered regarding Patrick subsequent to graduation. Neither the time nor the cause of his death have been ascertained.

SNYDER, ELMER R.

But little is known with regard to Snyder subsequent to graduation. He came to Philadelphia some time before his death, which occurred on March 16, 1898, from dysentery, at the University Hospital.

TAYLOR, HARRY BURNETT.
Born in Philadelphia, May 14, 1850.

Prepared for college at the Hancock Grammar School and Henry D. Gregory's Classical School. Attended the College of Pharmacy from 1867 to 1869, where he received his Ph.G. Graduated with our class in 1889. He was Coroner's Physician of Philadelphia, was a member of the County Medical Society and the D. Hayes Agnew Surgical Society. While serving as Coroner's Physician he received an infected wound, which caused his death. He died on December 17, 1901; unmarried.

WEISS, GEORGE LIVINGSTON.

Born at Schaefferstown, Pa., February 15, 1868.
Died February 2, 1898.

Received preliminary education at the Palatinate College, Myerstown, Pa. After graduation practised in Lebanon, Philadelphia, and subsequently at Schaefferstown. He married Laura Miles and had one child. There has always been some mystery surrounding his death; he was found unconscious in the road near Schaefferstown and died shortly after being brought to his home. There was a suspicion of foul play.

WHALEY, BENTON H.

Nothing has been ascertained with regard to Whaley subsequent to graduation. Neither the time nor the cause of his death has been discovered.
The Decennial Reunion of our class was held at the University Club, June 15, 1889, almost exactly five years ago to-day. The dinner began quietly and rapidly progressed with increasing noise into a wild western cyclone, for which Small and Gillespie were especially responsible. Stengel presided as Toast Master and his fluency was such that on the following day he had completely lost all recollection of what he had said on the previous evening. Posey responded to the Toast of the University; a History of the Class was read by Scott; Stitt spoke for the Army and Navy; Davis told bad stories about the specialists, and all the members of the class he could pull in; Adams responded for the class in Literature; McFarlan for the Medical Faculty; and Harry La Motte for the Rough Riders. He also gave an imitation of how they sang "There Will be a Hot Time in the Old Town To-night" before Santiago.

You may recall at that time that of the 128 men graduating, 111 responded to the circular letters distributed by the Committee. No responses were received from 11, while 8 of the men had died. The following men were present:

BEN FRANKLIN, Esq.

H' - rah! H' - rah! H' - rah! Penn - syl - va - ni - a!

In days of old, as we are told,
There lived a man named Ben:
A friend was he—and so are we—
To Penn - syl - va - nia men!

CHORUS:

Ben Frank - lin was his name,
And not un - known to fame,
The found - er first was he,
Of the U - ni - vers - i - tee!
A read-y blade, he oft-en made,
In-gen-i-ous lit-tle toys,
He built a kite, with great de-light,
And shocked the lit-tle boys!—Cho.

This an-cient squire, did then as-pire,
A pub-lic school to found:
And with a dash he rais-ed cash,
And bought a lot of ground.—Cho.

And then it grew as a-corns do,
To be a migh-ty tree:
And Ben-ja-min since then has been,
Of great ce-leb-ri-tee.—Cho.

And now we raise our song of praise,
To good old Fa-ther Ben:
A friend was he—and so are we—
To Penn-syl-va-nia men!—Cho.

THE RED AND BLUE.

Come all ye loy-al class-men now,
In hall and cam-pus through,
Lift up your hearts and voi-ces for
The roy-al Red and Blue.
Fair Har-vard has her crim-son,
Old Yale her col-ors too,
But for dear Penn-syl-va-ni-a,
We wear the Red and Blue.

CHORUS:

Hur-rah, Hur-rah, Penn-syl-va-ni-a,
Hur-rah for the Red and the Blue,
Hur-rah, Hur-rah, Hur-rah, Hur-rah,
Hur-rah for the Red and Blue.

One col-or's in the blush-ing rose,
The oth-er tints the clouds,
And when to-geth-er both dis-close
We're hap-py as the Gods.
We ask no oth-er em-blem,
No oth-er sign to view,
We on-ly ask to see and cheer,
Our col-ors, Red and Blue.
How oft-en when on fields of sport
We've seen our boys go through,
The very air was rent in twain
With cheers for Red and Blue.
We knew that vict'-ry then was ours,
All else we might es-cheew,
If on-ly we could wave and sing
Our col-ors, Red and Blue.

And then up-on the breast of her
Whose heart beats warm and true,
It is the dear-est sight of all
To see our Red and Blue.
She wears them with a smile so bright,
It wakes our hearts anew,
To swear e-ter-nal loy-al-ty,
To dear old Red and Blue.

And now thro' all the years to come,
In midst of toil and care,
We'll get new in-spir-a-tion from
The col-ors wav-ing there.
And when to all our col-lege life,
We've said our last adieu,
We'll nev-er say a-dieu to thee,
Our col-ors, Red and Blue.

THE PENNSYLVANIA GIRL.

If you've essayed to find the maid
More dear than all the rest,
You'll know her by the homage paid
By all who know her best.
You'll tell her by her bon-ny eye,
Her heart so warm and true,
But first of all you'll know her by
The loy-al red and blue.

Of all that's best, from East to West,
She is the queen, the pearl,
The maid to whom our hearts are true,
The Penn-syl-va-nia Girl.
Of all the best, from East to West,
She is the queen, the pearl,
The maid who wears the red and blue,
The Penn-syl-va-nia Girl.
The maid who wears the red and blue,
Rah! rah! rah! rah! rah!
The maid who wears the red and blue,
Rah! rah! rah!

One col-or dyes her laughing eyes,
Her lips the other know;
And just above her heart there lies
The dainty silken bow,
To show while there they rest enshrined
There's one who holds them fast,
Thro' good, thro' ill, till laurel twined,
The colors wave at last.

Of all that's rare, of all that's fair,
She is the queen, the pearl,
The maid to whom our hearts are true,
The Penn-sylvania Girl.
Of all that's rare, of all that's fair,
She is the queen, the pearl,
The maid who wears the red and blue,
The Penn-sylvania Girl.
To Alma Mater and to thee,
Rah! rah! rah! rah! rah!
To Alma Mater and to thee,
Rah! rah! rah!

And so while dear old Penn shall stand
Among her loyal host,
From heart to heart thro' out the land
Shall ring this trip-le toast:
We'll hail the College un-dismayed,
The fairest flag unfurled,
And with them pledge the sweetest maid,
The Penn-sylvania Girl.

Tho' some be fair, yet none compare,
To thee the queen, the pearl;
For-ev-er true our hearts shall be,
Dear Penn-sylvania Girl.
For-ev-er true our hearts shall be,
To thee the queen, the pearl,
To Alma Mater and to thee,
Dear Pennsyl-va-nia Girl.
To Alma Mater and to thee,
Rah! rah! rah! rah! rah!
To Alma Mater and to thee,
Rah! rah! rah!
